11,574 Taken Prisoner By Japanese on Fallen Manila Bay Islands

(By International News Service)

WASHINGTON—The war department announced today that a total of 11,574 soldiers, sailors and marines and civilians were trapped on the Manila bay forts at the time of their capture by the Japanese.

This number includes 2,275 naval personnel, 1,570 marines, 3,734 American soldiers, 1,280 Philippine scouts, 1,446 soldiers of the Philippine army and 1,269 casuals, including civilians.

Text of the war department's 219th communique as of 11:30 a. m. EWT follows:

"Philippine Theater—The total of soldiers, sailors, marines and civilians on Corregidor and the other fortified islands in Manila bay at the time of their capture by the Japanese is estimated to be approximately 11,574.

"This estimate is based on reports received up to April 15, 1942, and does not take into consideration casualties which may have been suffered since that time.

"This number includes 2,275 naval personnel, 1,570 marines, 3,734 American soldiers, 1,280 Philippine scouts, 1,446 soldiers of the Philippine commonwealth army, and 1,269 casuals, including civilians and individuals not otherwise classified.

"No communication has been received from the Philippines by the war department since early in the morning of May 6. It is presumed that all persons on the fortified islands are now prisoners of war.

"The Japanese government has announced that it intends to follow the provisions of the Geneva convention in its treatment of prisoners of war. This convention provides for exchange of lists of prisoners of war. As soon as any list of prisoners is received from Japan, through neutral countries or through the international Red Cross, it will be made public by the war department."

CHECK ON SLIM CLEW, ARREST 2 IN ROBBERY

Highway Patrolmen Credited With Solving Hold-Up of 4 At Loudonville.

GET 2 CONFESSIONS

Hundreds of License Numbers Examined to Apprehend Pair Held Under $5,000 Bond.

With the alphabetical series letters of an automobile license number as their only clew, two state highway patrolmen from the Wooster sub-station were credited today with solving the $300 hold-up of the Bank restaurant at nearby Loudonville on April 27 when the proprietor, his wife and two customers were robbed by two men armed with guns.

Corp. C. F. Strayer of the Mansfield patrol sub-station said today that as a result of investigations by the two patrolmen, D. A. Garner and R. G. Arnold, two men are in the county jail at Ashland, awaiting grand jury action on charges of armed robbery.

The men were identified as Dino C. Valerian, 22, and William Milite, 20, both of Cleveland. Both signed confessions and pleaded guilty on their arraignment before Mayor Edward Smith of Loudonville, Corp. Strayer said. They are held under bonds of $5,000 each.

A third suspect is being hunted by the patrolmen along with Marshal R. G. Schnittke who has been directing the Loudonville end of the investigation.

Valerian and Milite who are also accused of committing two robberies recently in Cleveland, are charged with entering the Loudonville restaurant shortly after midnight. They forced Lewis Stone, the proprietor, and his wife, to turn over the cash register receipts and then ordered the two customers, John Shipp and James Clark, to empty their pocketbooks on the counter, according to officers.

They then fled in an automobile which patrolmen said was

TALK STRATEGY

FDR Confers With Head of Army, Navy, Air Force.

WASHINGTON —(UNS)— Chiefs of the army, navy and air corps were called to the White House by President Roosevelt today for an important conference on war strategy in the light of latest developments on the various battlefronts.

The chief executive set aside an hour on his engagement schedule for Gen. George C. Marshall, chief of staff, Admiral Ernest J. King, commander in chief of the U. S. fleet, and Lieut. Gen. H. H. Arnold, chief of the army air forces.

Mr. Roosevelt was lunching with Secretary of State Hull, who was expected to report on latest developments in the strained situation with the French Vichy government as a result of the British occupation of Madagascar.

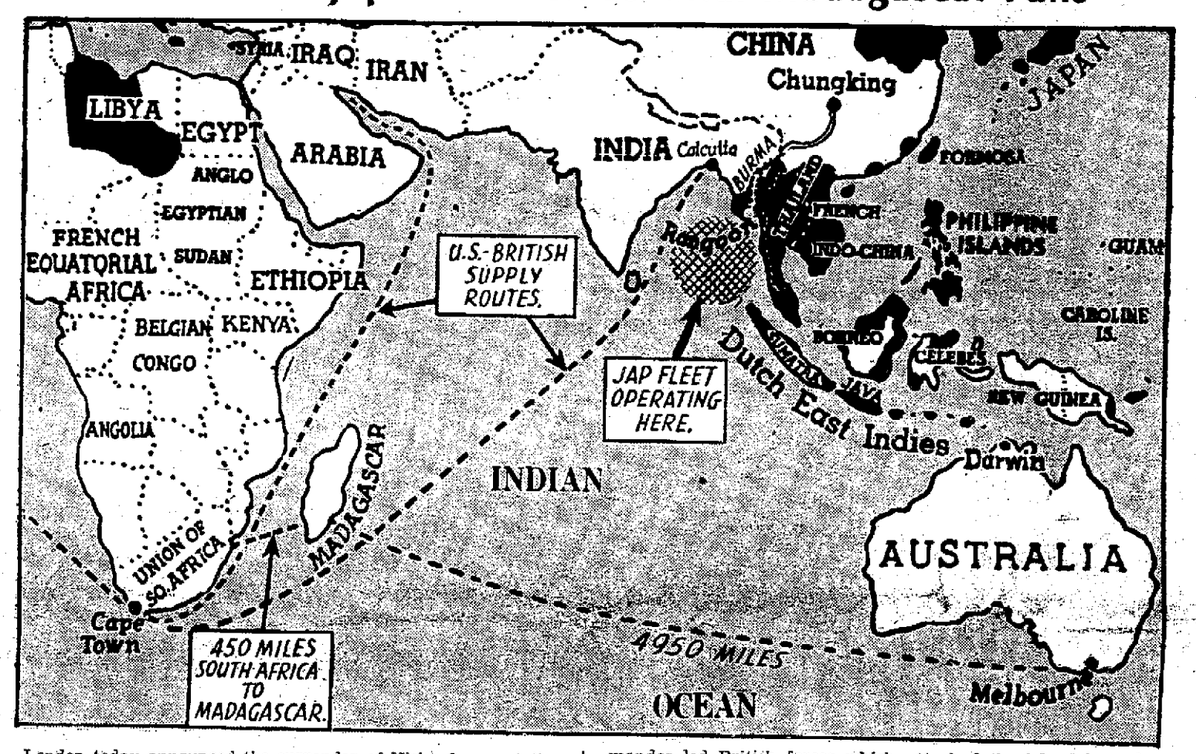
TROOPS ARRIVE

Vichy Says U. S. Forces Have Landed in Natal.

LONDON.—(UNS)—The London Evening Standard today picked up a Vichy broadcast asserting that an American expeditionary force had arrived in Natal, British colony on the southeast coast of Africa.

Natal is an important British possession in the Union of South Africa, southwest of the island of Madagascar. Its chief city and port is Durban.

British Beat Japs to Punch as Vital Madagascar Falls



London today announced the surrender of Vichy forces at the Diego Suarez naval base on the important Indian ocean island of Madagascar, thus completing a military move which beat Japan to the punch in an attempt to control Allied supply routes. Commandos led British forces which attacked the island base from the rear in a surprise landing Tuesday. The Vichy forces resisted the attack and British losses were expected to be more than 1,000. But the French were forced to yield and the British fleet is expected to sail into the Diego Suarez harbor this afternoon.

M'Arthur Reveals Successful Bombing of Enemy Craft In Invasion Zone

NEW THRUST EXPECTED

Air Reinforcements Being Rushed By Foe After Moresby Lull.

(By United Press)

GENERAL M'ARTHUR'S HEADQUARTERS, Australia —American airmen have opened a heavy attack on a powerful Japanese fleet massing in the northeastern invasion zone apparently for an imminent major offensive, Gen. Douglas MacArthur revealed today.

United States bombing planes, believed to include flying fortresses and Catalina-Consolidated bombers, struck at the Japanese naval forces in the Bougainville island area of the Solomons group, in what MacArthur called a successful attack.

His communique disclosed that the Japanese, in a long-awaited move toward big scale offensive activity, were massing warships and transports in the general area of Rabaul, in New Britain island, whence a fleet could essay a direct attack on Port Moresby, the valuable Allied advance base in New Guinea; the American forces in New Caledonia, or even on Australia itself.

Simultaneously, the Japanese had suddenly diminished the intensity of their persistent, savage, but costly aerial attacks on Port Moresby, MacArthur noted.

Diminishing Japanese aerial activity over Port Moresby had been taken at first to mean that the enemy had decided to take a rest after losing a high percentage of attacking planes to Allied fighters.

Now it appeared that the Japanese probably were concentrating and conserving their aerial power and it was known that they had

British Occupy Naval Base at Diego Suarez

Fleet Expected to Enter Harbor Today; Terms of Capitulation Being Drawn Up; Churchill Reveals Probable Loss of 1,000 Men In Attack.

BULLETIN

VICHY, Unoccupied France—(AP)—An announcement that Diego Suarez, main stronghold on French Madagascar, still was holding out at 1:30 p. m. Vichy Time (7:30 a. m., EWT) was issued here today. It was insisted that this was based on the latest information from Madagascar and was issued "in answer to a report" (presumably the British announcement) that the naval base had surrendered.

(By Associated Press)

LONDON—France's Diego Suarez bay fortifications, the best naval base of Madagascar, have fallen to British forces which landed at dawn Tuesday, and "terms of surrender are now being drawn up," officials announced today.

Prime Minister Churchill told the house of commons that the British fleet was expected to enter Diego Suarez harbor about 3:30 p. m., but added that the first assault Tuesday may have cost more than 1,000 men.

It was uncertain whether the surrender in the Diego Suarez area meant the end of all resistance, but informed sources expressed belief that the bulk of the fully equipped and trained Vichy troops on Madagascar had been engaged in the defense of Diego Suarez and therefore few would be left to fight elsewhere.

The war office, the admiralty, the ministry of information, military commentators and Prime Minister Churchill contributed to details of the conquest intended to block the Japanese threat to Indian ocean supply lines.

The village of Diego; Antsirana, the chief port of north Madagascar; and the Diego Suarez naval base were won in swift succession by the operations of British sea, land and air forces within less than 48 hours after they established a beachhead.

British infantry preceded by naval bombers charged a strong French position—protected by 75-millimeter field guns and machine guns—a few miles outside of Antsirana, the chief town of the harbor area, and opened the way for its capture.

Draft Officials Say 'Work or Fight' Policy Starts Functioning Soon For Those With No Children.

The average married Richland countian with only a wife as a dependent will be called upon this summer to go to the army or take a job in a war industry as the government moves gradually toward a "work or fight" attitude in its mobilization of manpower, it was revealed today.

Already the three Richland county selective service boards are calling married men formerly classified as 3-A for physical examinations and inducting them into the army.

State selective service officials at Columbus announced today that the contemplated army of 6,000,000 men this year will force local boards to "go pretty far into the deferred classifications, particularly into the 3-A's."

State Draft Director C. W. Goble asserted that "A man with a wife as his only dependent will be number one on our list when we begin calling men now deferred because of dependency."

He said that registrants with "the greatest decree of dependency," such as those with dependent wives and children, will be the last group sought for military service.

Goble said that to meet manpower demands, becoming "more intense every day" in both industry and the armed forces, local boards are reconsidering the cases of all registrants with dependency deferments for two major purposes. The first is to eliminate from Class 3-A all men who can not prove their dependents need their income for "support in a reasonable manner." The second purpose is to distinguish between 3-A Relatives Discover Site of Army Transport Crash.

LOS ANGELES —(AP)— Wreckage tentatively identified as that of the army transport plane which carried Maj. Gen. Herbert A. Dargue, commander of the First air force, and seven others to death Dec. 12 has been discovered in southern California.

G. B. Burns of Spokane, Wash., father of Lieut. Homer C. Burns, co-pilot of the plane, and other relatives discovered the wreckage at dusk last night. The location was kept a secret until the army can send a party to the scene today and post guards.

Burns told army air force officials he found his son's belt and saw one body and scattered clothing.

1,500-Mile Bombing Flight Won DFC for Capt. Parsel

Details of a long and hazardous bombing mission against Japanese shipping in the Philippines for which the late Capt. Elmer L. Parsel, of Plymouth, was awarded the Distinguished Flying Cross, were revealed today by the War department.

This was the first of two awards for heroism received by Capt. Parsel, who met death in a plane crash at New Delhi, India, on April 2 along with Second Lieut. Robert P. Spreng of Mansfield, and seven other members of the army air corps. Both Capt. Parsel and Lieut. Spreng were posthumously awarded the Order of the Purple Heart yesterday at New Delhi.

23,000 Still to Register In Last Day Sugar Parade

Registration of Richland countians for sugar ration cards went into the final day today with an estimated 23,000 persons still to be signed up in Mansfield, Shelby, and the county rural districts.

Total registrations yesterday reached a new high of 19,983, and teachers who are handling the registrations anticipated a busy afternoon and evening if all the unregistered sugar users beat the 9 p. m. deadline tonight. Teachers yesterday issued 18,336 ration books.

Daily registrations have shown an increase since Monday. Yesterday's total was 1,180 above the Tuesday total, James Bailey, rationing board chairman, reported. Registrations now total 56,220 while 51,673 books have been issued.

Bailey emphasized that the doors of registration places will close at the usual time tonight and persons outside at the time will not be registered. Those inside the schools at the closing time will be permitted to register tonight.

PATROL: U. S. Navy on Watch Around French Possessions

(By International News Service)

WASHINGTON—With relations between the United States and Vichy France at a critical stage, the American Navy today is patrolling the waters of Martinique and Guadeloupe, the two French possessions in the Caribbean.

A daily patrol of these French territorial waters is being carried out by an American warship and naval seaplanes.

Purpose of the patrol is to watch the French warships, including an aircraft carrier and a cruiser, in the harbor at Martinique and to make sure that Axis submarines do not attempt to use either Martinique or Guadeloupe as a base of operations in the Caribbean.

Under the terms of an existing agreement with the French high commissioner of Martinique, the French warships are not supposed to leave the harbor without prior notification to this government.

In view of the strained relations with Vichy as a result of Pierre Laval's return to power and the British occupation of Madagascar, it is feared that the French high commissioner might be instructed to disregard the agreement with this government and told to order

NATURALIZATION PAPERS ISSUED 24 RESIDENTS

Three Fail to Appear, Three Others Denied Citizenship; Lacking Education.

The privilege of American citizenship had been won today by 24 more foreign-born residents of Mansfield and Richland county who qualified in common pleas court for their naturalization papers.

Thirty applicants were notified to appear yesterday for their final tests before Judge C. H. Huston. Three failed to show up and three others were denied their papers temporarily because of too little education.

All of the new citizens are natives of non-belligerent countries or those allied with the United States in the present war. Petitions of German and Italian natives were withheld indefinitely by federal immigration authorities. There were no Japanese applicants.

Pointing out that three of the class of 30 failed to get their papers because they lacked sufficient schooling, Thomas C. Hoffman, county naturalization clerk, urged others seeking citizenship, including those of German and Italian birth, to continue their attendance at citizenship classes so they will be ready for the examinations when another hearing is set.

Ten of the group of 24 new citizens came to this country from Yugoslavia. Others are natives of Greece, England, Poland, Russia, Scotland, Albania, Canada, and Czechoslovakia.

Applicants who qualified yesterday were:

Godfried Bauer, 535 Lily street; John Ristoff, 228½ North Main street; Tefik Harun, 760 Bowman street; Achileus Nicolos Charisios, rear of 224 North Main street; Argir Milonas, 131 West Sixth street; James McLauchlan, 53 Brickman avenue; Alexander Hamilton, 220 North Mulberry street; Johanna Kragick, Mansfield, R. D. 5; Theresa Miller, 535 Lily street.

Peter Ozga, 417 McPherson street; Hargaret Duda, 297 Myers avenue; Peter Ludwig, 253 West Arch street; Alta May Munn, Plymouth; Conrad Gaubatz, Sunset boulevard; Isabel Valentine, 30 Small avenue; Philip Gottl, Garden Acres; Sidney West, 177 Marlow road; Michael Kissel, Bellville, R. D. 1; John The, 19 Arnold avenue; Dominic Joseph Dorion, Plymouth; Elizabeth Schmidt, 423 Burns street; Suzanna Helen Whisler, 133 North Benton street; Mary Marion, 523 Lily street and Catherine Helen Bonham, 316 South Diamond street.

FRENCH GIVE UP BASE ON MADAGASCAR

Terms of Surrender Being Drawn Up; Churchill Says British Losses 1,000.

chine-gun nests were pulverized by British bombs and shell-fire from guns the British were able to land.

Pushing across these positions, the parties moved on to capture Antsirana in the campaign launched at dawn Tuesday.

The French commanders surrendered, but some pockets of resistance remained, said a joint war office and admiralty communique.

"The main attack was launched from the south," the communique said, "but the landing of royal marines from the north created a valuable diversion."

Apparently referring to actions already announced by the French, officials said a French submarine and sloop had been sunk in Diego Suarez harbor in the attack upon Antsirana, where the French had developed the chief naval base of Madagascar.

A Vichy communique last night said "the fierce resistance of our troops considerably slackened the enemy progress" across the neck of the 1,000-mile-long island which is a strategic key to control of the Indian ocean.

The British followed the pattern of the Japanese drive on Singapore in striking by land from the rear instead of by sea in a frontal assault upon Diego Suarez, where naval guns command the eastern approaches.

It is eight miles by air from the man-grove bordered shore of Courrier bay east to Diego Suarez, but more than twice that distance over the rugged land across the isthmus and around Diego Suarez bay.

Axis radio broadcasts stressing difficulties of the defense and the numerical superiority of the British seemed to be preparing their listeners for loss of the base and observers said the French forces might take to the hills for guerrilla warfare.

It was disclosed that, in addition to the major landings at Courrier bay, other forces went ashore at Ambararata bay to the south.

Diplomatic circles here were watching Vichy closely for retaliatory action by the Pierre Laval government.

Free French said this might take the form of some naval aid to the Axis, probably the allocation of French cruisers and destroyers to the German fleet.

Informed British diplomatic sources expressed doubt whether the French fleet "would fight with or for the Germans."

Prime Minister Churchill praised the gallantry of the French and expressed regret that blood had been shed.

Hint Britain Set To Take Offensive

LONDON —(U.P.)— Indications that Great Britain expects to take the offensive soon were given today by Prime Minister Churchill and Hugh Dalton, president of the board of trade.

Speaking in the house of commons, Dalton said Britain is "on the eve, perhaps, of a great new campaign."

He was starting debate on fuel rationing.

Churchill earlier had said:

"The time approaches when our accumulated strength will be matched against our enemies in every theater of the war."

RAF Renews Attacks Against Stuttgart

LONDON —(INS)— For the third time in succession, British bombers struck early today at the city of Stuttgart in southwestern Germany, site of the giant electrical plants which turn out vital parts for the Nazi war machine.

The great Bosch magneto works and the Daimler-Benz automotive factory were believed the chief targets of the raid.

An official announcement said that Stuttgart was attacked "in force."

Other objectives in southern Germany also were blasted.

The docks at Nantes, on the coast of occupied France, and enemy airfields in other conquered territory were bombed by RAF squadrons. Seven planes were missing after the attacks.

Gigantic Battles Expected In Russia

MOSCOW —(INS)— Russian armies reported new gains in the Leningrad and Kalinin areas today while belief gained ground among Moscow observers that violent fighting, approaching the scale of last summer's battles, soon will be raging in several sectors of Europe's eastern front.

An indication that the Soviet forces are planning a spring offensive of their own, in line with the recent order issued by Premier Josef Stalin, was given by the government newspaper Izvestia, which said the Red army had abandoned "active defense" for "positive offense."

Moscow heard reports that Adolf Hitler, too, might be nearly ready to launch the German army's highly-advertised spring offensive. These reports, arriving from London, quoted the German radio as saying that "feverish activity" was in progress behind the Nazi battle lines on the eastern front.

All-American Crew Joins Raid On Nazis

LONDON—(INS)—An All-American crew in a Havoc bomber participated in an attack on a German aerial squadron over an airport in Holland last night, it was announced today.

It was the first time an all-American crew had been in action in the Royal Air Force's air offensive against Germany.

The fliers were believed attached to the RAF, as an actual United States air force is not yet in action over Europe although all plans have been made to establish one shortly.

The Americans were Pilot-Officer Lukas, Sergeant Randolph and Sergeant Haskill. Their home towns were not learned immediately.

Finns Claim More Reds 'Annihilated'

HELSINKI, Finland—(AP)—The Finnish high command today announced the annihilation of the Soviet 238th infantry regiment and reinforcements from three different ski battalions in the Louhi sector north of Lake Onega, where the Russians have been attacking for two weeks.

The Finns said more than 1,500 Soviet dead were counted, including the regimental commander and his staff.

Reports indicated the 238th regiment pierced the Finnish lines but was immediately surrounded by the Finns.

MUNY PLANT BUYS BONDS

SHELBY—Mayor W. R. Morris announced today that Finance Director Chester P. Monn has purchased $35,000 worth of war defense bonds with the surplus funds from Municipal Electric Co. A similar purchase is expected to be made later in the year.

The surplus fund is used for depreciation costs at the electric company. The funds used from the surplus were some that had been lying idle, city officials said, and this way they will draw interest.

the warships to attempt to make a dash out into the open sea. The naval patrol is on the lookout for any such move.

If the American government should find it necessary to occupy Martinique and the other French possessions in this hemisphere, the action will be taken in accord with the agreement reached with the other American republics at the Havana conference in July, 1940.

The convention provides that after taking over any such European possessions in this hemisphere, the United States shall invite other American republics to participate in the establishment of a provisional administration in the territory, to govern until such time as the people of the country to which it belongs are in a position to express their "free" will concerning its future.

SCRAP DEALERS TO BE LICENSED

OPA Announces Automatic Ruling Effective May 20.

WASHINGTON —(AP)— Price Administrator Leon Henderson announced today that all dealers selling waste, scrap or salvage material to investors or consumers would be licensed by the government automatically on May 20.

A formal registration of each such junk dealer with OPA will be required on or before June 20, Henderson said. Meanwhile, any dealer violating price schedules or regulations on waste or scrap materials may, after May 20, have his license to operate suspended as provided in the price control act.

OPA said today's licensing order marked the first application of the new licensing authority to a specific industry.

received airplane reinforcements.

United States bombing planes had done terrific damage to such enemy bases as Rabaul and Lae and Salamaua, on the Huon gulf of northern New Guinea, across the island from Port Moresby.

An army spokesman said here that it was believed Salamaua, used by the enemy as base for plane attacks on Port Moresby, had been almost wiped out.

Raids on Rabaul and Lae, he said, had proved even more successful than first reports from pilots indicated.

It was noted that the Japanese were now using obsolete fighters of Mitsubishi-39 type to reinforce their fast navy Zero fighters, their best.

This indicated a shortage of fighters, but it was understood that the enemy air corps was being reinforced with bombing planes of latest type. The fall of Corregidor in the Philippines released many planes and men for service elsewhere.

There was no doubt that the Allied air raids had slowed the Japanese and put back for weeks a Japanese offensive in the Australasian zone.

Now, however, there were indications that the Japanese had decided they must strike or face progressively heavy attacks by the growing Allied air corps.

Melbourne Reports Jap Reinforcements

SAN FRANCISCO — (INS) — "Furious" reinforcement by the Japanese of Rabaul, Jap-held base on New Guinea in preparation for widespread assaults on Port Moresby, was reported today by the Melbourne radio.

The Melbourne broadcast, recorded by the CBS short wave listening station in San Francisco, quoted a correspondent at an Allied air base as declaring unremitting Allied air attacks on Jap-held concentration points such as Rabaul and Salamaua had postponed a full-scale invasion of Port Moresby by the Nipponese.

Japs Occupy New Chinese Position

CHUNGKING —(INS)— Japanese forces have occupied Wanting in western Yunnan province and now have reached Chefang, 38 kilometers inside the Chinese border, a Chungking government spokesman said today.

Bitter fighting now is raging at Chefang, he said.

The spokesman said Chinese forces did not have time to destroy the road—a move which would have seriously hampered the Japanese advance.

"The road is in good condition and hard to destroy," he said. "We have not had time enough to destroy it."

On the Chindwin river front, the Japanese have reached Yehwu after forcing the British back above Monywa and are turning east in an attempt to encircle the Chinese in the Mandalay area who are stubbornly resisting the enemy's northward drive.

Chiang Arrives At Burma Front

NEW DELHI —(INS)— Generalissimo Chiang Kai-Shek has arrived on the Burma fighting front to join American Lieut. Gen. Joseph W. Stilwell in planning a counter-offensive against Japan, reports reaching New Delhi said today.

Chinese reinforcements reportedly accompanied Chiang in his dramatic trip over the Burma border while other reserves were believed to have been rushed into Yunnan province to battle Japaneshe units pushing northeastward from Wanting.

It was believed by military observers in New Delhi that any Chinese counter-offensive aimed at salvaging something from the hitherto disastrous Burma campaign probably would be launched from Yunnan.

The main body of the Chinese fifth and sixth armies in Burma are known to be virtually intact despite their heavy burden of the last few weeks, although two divisions suffered considerable losses on the Toungoo and Salween fronts.

Observe 50th Wedding Anniversary Sunday

The 50th wedding anniversary of Mr. and Mrs. William Sengstock sr., shown above, will be observed at the Sengstock home in New London Sunday. Both natives of Lowenburg, Germany, Sengstock and the then Pauline Drath came to the United States with their families in 1888, while they were both in their 'teens, settling in adjoining Erie county.

The young couple took up housekeeping on a farm near Sandusky, where they lived until 1912 when they moved to a farm near New London, remaining on it for 23 years. Seven years ago, the Sengstocks retired from farm duties and moved to their present home. All members of the family are expected home to help their parents observe the day. Open house will be observed from 2 p. m. to 4 p. m., and from 7 p. m. to 9 p. m.

"But through the bloody haze of its last reverberating shot I will always see a vision of its grim, gaunt, ghastly men still unafraid."

Japs Pay Heavy Toll For Philippines

WASHINGTON —(U.P.)— A review of sketchy army and navy communiques covering the five-month battle of the Philippines showed today that the Japanese paid a heavy toll—at least 24 ships, 194 aircraft and unknown thousands of men.

It is obvious that these figures are far from complete. They are based on admittedly conservative army and navy releases, and leave out of account many other casualties in material probably suffered by the Japanese.

Besides the 20 ships known to have been destroyed, 13 others are listed as damaged, many of them probably left in a sinking condition. The hazardous hit-and-run attacks by American planes, ships and submarines probably did much damage that could not be observed.

The total of 194 aircraft known to have been shot down is also far below the actual. The number of planes mentioned in army and navy communiques up to Feb. 10, for example, was only 55, but on that date the war department issued a recapitulation of Japanese plane losses listing 163 shot down.

part along with Capt. Donald M. Keiser of McComb, Capt. Edward C. Teats of Sharpsburg, Pa., and First Lieut. Earl R. Tash of Walla Walla, Wash., in a long-range bombing mission against the Japanese on Dec. 22.

Except for refueling, Capt. Parsel and his companions remained in the air for 32 hours to complete their task.

Their first objective, after completing a trip of 1,500 miles started from an unnamed base in the Dutch East Indies on Dec. 22, was the Gulf of Davao, in the Philippines, where they damaged several ships and started numerous fires along the shore. Landing after dark at a secret Philippine base they refueled and reloaded, and proceeded to Lingayen Gulf, Luzon, bombing transports there. Then they returned to their base after nearly 32 hours of continuous flight.

Merchants of Mansfield Area Try to Digest Details of 'Ceiling' Regulations.

Boiled down, here is what the retail merchant must do, Ricca told the group:

1. He must not charge more for the products he sells than the highest price he charged for the same commodity in March;

2. By May 18 he must post the selling price on every "cost-of-living" commodity on the item itself, or on the shelf or bin from which it is sold;

3. By June 1 he must submit to the rationing board serving his community a complete list of these "cost-of-living" commodities which he sells, and the maximum price he is charging (based, of course, on the March maximum);

4—By July 1, he must have available on demand of any customer, or OPA representative, a complete list of everything he has in the store which is not exempted by the regulation, and the price for which it sells.

5—He is automatically licensed to do business—and if he continues to violate provisions of the act after one warning, the OPA may petition a court to suspend his license for as much as 12 months.

The act, Ricca explained, covers nearly everything the public eats, wears, and uses. It covers foods, clothing, furniture, household appliances, ice and fuel, drugs and tobacco. Among exempted items are professional services, motion pictures, public utilities, common carriers, used cars, books, newspapers, or beverages or foods prepared for consumption on the premises.

It was item No. 4 which caused the greatest consternation among the merchants. One member of the audience rose, pointed out that he has 20,000 separate items in his store, and asked if he is expected to have the price list mentioned by Ricca available by July 1. Pecht added that his firm has 35,000 items.

But the answer still was yes. Ricca conceded that in some lines of business particularly the preparation of these price lists would be a job of large-scale proportions. But the price act states clearly that this must be done.

Ricca explained that the act was one of the points in the program to combat inflation. The price ceiling and rationing will insure, he said, that commodities will continue to be available on the basis of the public's need, rather than the public's ability to pay.

Ricca was besieged after the meeting by scores of merchants with special problems—one who raised prices on April 1, instead of in March, as did others in the same line of business; another who held his price in March because he had an inventory of the items, even though the wholesale price increased that month; a number who sold commodities in March for later delivery; and so on down a long list of situations.

Ricca advised all to study the act thoroughly and then all who still had specific problems to write to the OPA office in Cleveland for a ruling.

MANSFIELD, OHIO, THURSDAY, MAY 7, 1942.

Hope for a short war, but prepare for a long one.

While 5-4 supreme court decisions establish legality they leave considerable uncertainty.

Every community has some eccentric character—but the whole world has only one Gandhi.

A Brave Bastion Falls

THE FALL of Corregidor and three sister forts in the entrance to Manila bay brings Americans more rudely face to face with the grim—but not hopeless!—situation in the Pacific than any other event of the war.

Not only have the Japanese now seized the best harbor in the Far East, they have made good their boast to overrun the islands of the south Pacific. In the highly defensible atolls of Micronesia, which they secretly fortified, they hold a land bridge extending dangerously close to Hawaii.

While United States forces, in the words of the president, serve on the battlefronts of the world, we were unable to get food, medicine, or ammunition to the 7,000 valiant men and women on Corregidor—our last great outpost in the Philippines—just as, earlier, we were unable to get help to the gallant men on Bataan.

Gallant, but fighting without hope of relief, Corregidor's forces withstood 300 air attacks. During the last week they held up under murderous cross fire of shore batteries. They kept the flag flying for more than five months, until hunger, disease and immeasurably superior forces overwhelmed them.

Lieut. Gen. Jonathan M. Wainwright and his weary men laid down their arms only after 150 days of the most furious fighting in all the history of sanguinary battles.

They are heroes; but their heroism must not have been in vain.

Americans on the home front must not be confused by the hurly-burly of price fixing, sugar, gasoline and tire rationing. Domestic economic adjustment is necessary but it will not avenge Bataan and Corregidor. Only smashing victory over the enemy on his home front will do that.

Our eyes must never turn from that objective for an instant.

Right now we are sending troops and supplies to Australia, a base ten thousand miles from home, and still thousands of miles from the enemy's home ports and industries. Our one ally within striking distance of those objectives will not permit us even to survey for air bases because of his own neutrality commitment to Japan. With Russia we are allies in the west and "belligerents" in the east.

Indeed the picture is grim. Yet it is the realization of that grimness which makes it far from hopeless.

At the brave and bloody price of Corregidor and Bataan, Americans are paying for the most valued lesson of the war; defense can harm the enemy but it cannot lick him.

So You Had to Wait?

ALTHOUGH a good many folks have had to wait for varying periods of time, there hasn't been a great deal of grumbling about the delay involved in consumer registration for sugar at elementary schools in Richland county this week.

Perhaps people realize that they have it easy, compared to the teachers who are serving as registrars (without any compensation, of course.)

More than 400 elementary and junior high principals and teachers in the county are acting as registrars, and are asking over and over again the stock questions about age, address, color of hair and eyes, amount of sugar on hand, etc. Then, to speed the handling, the Mansfield Senior high teachers were called in Tuesday to assist. They previously had handled the registration of retailers, wholesalers, restaurants and institutional users of sugar last week.

It's no picnic for the teachers. They go through their regular schedule of teaching classes, except that they are dismissing their students about an hour earlier. Then they swing immediately into the hectic chore of registering consumers for sugar ration books.

From 2:30 to 5, then from 6 to 9, in Mansfield, and from 3 straight through to 9 in the county schools, the teachers are on the job. When registration closes at 9, there's still the finishing-up job to do, and that takes from one to two hours usually.

So, if you are a member of the S-to-Z group which registers in the final afternoon and evening today, it would be well to remember that when you have to wait a bit you still don't have it as tough as the teachers.

The teachers have done a fine job, one that's pretty generally unappreciated. And maybe they don't even like sugar in their coffee.

Golf and the War Job

GOLF as a national peril is a new idea. Most people think of it as a healthful and harmless recreation. So it is, if played at the right time by the right persons. The wrong persons to play it are big business executives, and the wrong time is during office hours.

So says Lieutenant-General Brehon Somervell chief of the army's supply services, who complains bitterly of heads of defense industries who are out playing golf when some one is trying to get them on the telephone. He says: "We've got to have the same devotion to duty from these men that management expects from its employes, if we're going to put this over."

Golf was once defined by a cynical observer as an occupation that preserved the lives of our most useless citizens. Be that as it may, it shouldn't operate to preserve the lives of our Axis enemies.

Uncle Sam can keep on raising armies as long as Hitler can, and with this difference, that ours will go on fighting till it's over, over there.

An Athlete's Heart

LESLIE M'MITCHELL, great American mile runner, has been rejected by the navy because he has what they call a slow heart. Anyone who has ever tried to put all he has into even a quarter of a mile run will have his own opinion about the wisdom of this decision.

Evidently the navy people felt uneasy about it themselves. Their doctors have now discovered that many famous runners have unusual hearts, and are going to reclassify MacMitchell. If his heart is bad, let us hope that more of our draftees have bad hearts of the same kind.

Morale Offensive Being Speeded

—By CARTER FIELD

WASHINGTON—Reports of the pounding of German objectives by bombers, and air activities in general against the Nazis, are not exaggerations. Nor are reports about aid to Russia. President Roosevelt seems to be playing a dirty sort of trick on the Japanese. He is doing exactly what he said he would!

Meaning that he promised right after Pearl Harbor that he would not permit Hitler's Far Eastern Ally to play the Nazi strategy by diverting all American aid to the Southwest Pacific. As any Nazi spy who is active enough can find out, planes are still pouring to Britain and Russia, and this is the real explanation of Germany's present troubles.

Actually, while it may be wishful thinking, or it may be bad guessing, there is nothing like so much concern, either here in Washington or in London, or, for that matter in Moscow, about the Nazi Spring offensive. The increased tempo of the air attacks has diverted a tremendous amount of German air strength from the Russian front, and according to the London reports the United Nations are using their newly obtained superiority.

Frequently nowadays the British reports admit more losses of their own than of the enemy. Fortunately, these reports are not to be accepted without a bit of translation because of the extraordinary conservatism of the British claims about enemy planes shot down one can always be sure that the number of enemy losses claimed is a minimum, not a maximum.

So if the British say the enemy lost six planes, it is probable that MORE than six were destroyed.

Obviously the United Nations are concentrating on Germany, certain that if they once knock her out the remainder of the war is only a question of time. With increasing air superiority, both on the Russian and the Atlantic fronts, it is not so much a question of military achievement as it is of destruction of German morale.

In appraising the judgment of President Roosevelt and Prime Minister Churchill in thus concentrating on Germany, and letting Japan, for the time being, get away with murder, one should remember that it was the collapse of German morale in the last war which brought peace, rather than smashing military victories. The German armies were never driven back to their own soil. They were still on a line deep in France when the armistice was signed.

Every time the United Nations bomb a German munitions plant, or rail junction, or city for that matter, the effect on German morale is vitally important. There is no thought here to underestimate the actual damage done in these raids, especially to German war production. But the word of mouth stories about airplane or tank plants being laid waste, as they go through Germany, exaggerated by every repetition, are almost as important as the accomplishments themselves.

In short the present campaign is directed at bringing about a collapse inside Germany. The effort is to take advantage of the weakness clearly shown in Hitler's last broadcast, which incidentally merely reinforces all the grapevine reports extending across the borders. Hope here is that when December comes, and the gloom of another German winter, the end of the war, so far as Europe is concerned, may be brought about.

TODAY IN HISTORY

Robert Browning, famed English poet, was born on this day in 1812. To Browning fame and success came slowly. Most of his great works demand profound study but those like "The Pied Piper of Hamelin" make boys and girls clamor for more. In 1846 the poet married Elizabeth Barrett, also of high rank in English literature. He died in 1889 and was buried in Westminster Abbey.

The Anniversary of Ether's Use

—By LOGAN CLENDENING, M. D.

ABOUT one hundred years ago right this week some strange news was going about among the doctors in Georgia. A country practitioner in Jefferson, Georgia, had operated on March 30, 1842, and had used ether to put the patient to sleep and had removed some tumors from his neck without any pain on the part of the patient.

The doctor was Crawford Williamson Long, a graduate of the University of Pennsylvania Medical department. He was then 26 years old and had only been in practice for a few years. This was the first time that ether had ever been deliberately used as a planned procedure for the purpose of making a patient unconscious and unaware of pain during a surgical operation. Indeed, except for a few sporadic and dubious trials at one time or another through the ages, it was the first time any agent had ever been used for that purpose.

Surgery before that must have been a horror to watch and to experience. The great thing about any operation was to get it over as fast as possible. He was the best operator who was the quickest. Sometimes opium and brandy were used and hypnotism was tried. The great French surgeon, Dupuytron, once made an insulting remark to a lady patient and when she fainted away from sensitiveness, operated on her before she had time to regain consciousness. But no method had been proved to be satisfactory.

When Dr. Long was a student in Philadelphia, he and some other students used to inhale ether because they found its effects exhilarating, and when he started in practice in Jefferson some young men asked him to give them some laughing gas in order that they could have a good time at a party. He substituted ether and they found that it caused more liveliness than either laughing gas or brandy.

In fact, parties which were called "ether frolics" became quite the vogue. Dr. Long noticed that some of these young gentlemen under ether, while lurching around, would injure themselves quite severely but appeared to take no notice of the pain. In this way the idea occurred to him that ether could be deliberately used to induce insensibility in surgical operations.

Early in March, in 1842, 100 years ago, his opportunity presented itself. A young man named James M. Venable had some tumors on his neck which he wanted removed but this he had postponed on account of the dread of pain involved. Dr. Long suggested to him that he could put him to sleep with ether and he would feel no pain. In his little office in a brick building which is still standing in Jefferson, Georgia, this was accomplished in the presence of witnesses who were friends of Mr. Venable.

Later Dr. Long operated on Mr. Venable again for the removal of other tumors on his neck, and during the year 1842 he operated several times under ether for such things as the amputation of a toe, all of which are a matter of record.

Dr. Long did not make his discovery known to the medical world until after ether had been used in public for an operation in 1846 at the Massachusetts General hospital in Boston. This has somewhat dimmed the fame of his credit, but it is curious for us today to think that this great boon to mankind is so young as to be only 100 years old.

Army Forced to Use Jap Labor To Bolster Hawaiian Defenses

—By DREW PEARSON and ROBERT S. ALLEN

WASHINGTON—Dynamic Assistant War Secretary John McCloy has just come back from an inspection trip to Pearl Harbor where he reports that it still is absolutely essential to use Japanese labor to help erect Hawaii's bristling defenses.

Just after Pearl Harbor, the war department issued an order removing all Japanese from defense work in Hawaii. However, new commander Gen. Delos Emmons protested: "You can't do that. You don't know how many lathes you are stopping."

In the end he proved to be right. The Japanese were found to be essential to defense work, and the order was rescinded.

Japanese are now used in digging ditches to break up possible landing fields; building roads; and they even work in arsenals producing guns. Suspicious Japanese have been picked up. But it is impossible to test the loyalty of others. However, to get the vital defense work done in a hurry, the war department is convinced there is no other out than to use Jap labor.

Furthermore the alternative of deporting Hawaii's huge Japanese population would be a tremendous job. They can't be shipped to California. And they can't be sent to a separate island, where they might establish a landing base for Japanese attack. So the present solution is to leave them where they are, carefully guarded.

Meanwhile, Pearl Harbor is on the alert with more protective devices than ever before in history. Every hour of the day and night patrol planes scour the air around the islands. No fleet, either by sea or air, could approach Hawaii undetected.

Trouble Ahead.

The day after Leon Henderson issued his sweeping price freezing order, the president asked him, "How are you getting on?"

"Well, I'd put it this way," said Henderson with a grin. "I feel like the boy who threw a rock through a window and is sure something is bound to happen."

Hillman Is Through.

He hasn't announced it yet, but former war labor chief Sidney Hillman has definitely decided not to take the White House staff job offered him by the president.

The announcement of the appointment implied Hillman had accepted it. Inside fact is he hasn't, and the statement apparently was worded as if he had in order to pressure Hillman into agreeing. He is still recuperating from exhaustion due to his prolonged strenuous work as a top war official, but when he leaves the hospital he will not go back to the government.

Hillman will resume the presidency of the powerful Amalgamated Clothing workers, and then will embark on a triple-headed campaign to:

(1) drive John L. Lewis out of the CIO: (2) force a showdown with labor elements playing ball undercover with Lewis; (3) fight against isolationists in this year's crucial congressional elections.

Leading CIO chiefs long have wanted Hillman to return to union affairs. With the internal battle over Lewis nearing a climax, they know he is the one top leader within the CIO who has taken Lewis' measure, and that his personal participation in the fray will stiffen the opposition against Lewis.

In gunning for laborites playing ball with the miner czar, chief target of Hillman's fire will be David Dubinsky, president of the International Ladies Garment workers. Recently, Emil Schlesinger, Dubinsky's lawyer and close friend, became Lewis' New York attorney.

Do-As-Done-By Department.

About forty years ago, a night telegrapher from Littleton, N. C., named Tom Morgan, invested his chief capital—$1.25—in a ticket to Newport News, Va., packed his things in a poke, and joined the U. S. navy. At the same time his interest in aviation was aroused by reading of the first flight of the Wright brothers at Kittyhawk, N. C.

Last week, after four decades, the ex-telegrapher from North Carolina wrote a letter to the secretary of war stating that his company wanted to refund $100,000,000 to the government because it was making too large a profit on war contracts.

During the interim, young Tom Morgan had served four years on the battleship Delaware, where he met Elmer Sperry, inventor of the famous gyroscope. Then an ordinary seaman, Morgan helped to install the first gyroscope on the Delaware, and Sperry liked his work so much that after his four years' enlistment terminated. Morgan was offered a job as foreman in the Sperry plant.

Since then he has become head of the Sperry corporation, helped organize Curtiss-Wright, and is chairman of Pan American Airways.

But Morgan never lost the human touch. And in these days when we are scrutinizing the type of manpower this nation has developed and the kind of democracy we have built, it is significant that the ex-telegrapher and ex-sailor from North Carolina not only rose to the top, but was one of the first to rebate profits to his country in time of trouble.

Note: From time to time, the WASHINGTON MERRY-GO-ROUND will attempt to give recognition to those who have made significant sacrifices, both big and little, on the home front. If you note something which we have missed, send it to our Do-as-Done-by department.

Time Is Short.

In a letter to House Leader John McCormack, WPB Chief Donald Nelson stated that he and other war officials had testified 191 times before various committees. While he didn't say so explicitly, Nelson clearly implied that key WPB officials were spending too much time on Capitol Hill.

A few days after McCormack inserted the letter in the Congressional Record, Nelson was summoned by the house banking committee to testify on a small business bill. He was scheduled to appear at 10:30 a. m., and was there on the dot. But the committee took its own sweet time in coming.

By the time a majority had strolled in, it was 10:50. Then the committee took up an additional two hours of Nelson's time listening to testimony largely repeated from what Nelson had said when he appeared before the senate banking committee on the same bill.

After it was all over, a friend asked the WPB chief if his frequent appearances before congressional committees—this was the 16th—"aren't getting you down?"

"Well, I look at it this way," replied Nelson, wearily mopping his brow. "Another drop of water won't hurt a drowned rat."

Note: Official slogan of the WPB chief is: "Time is Short."

Watching Trends

—By JACK STINNETT

WASHINGTON — In recent years, death, defeat or retirement has taken a staggering toll of colorful figures in congress. Gone from Capitol Hill now are Senators Borah, Pittman and Ashurst and Congressman J. Ham Lewis, to mention only a few.

But of the men who have made colorful copy—reams of it—none lately will have left any greater gap in the pattern than Boston's Back Bay Rep. George Holden Tinkham, who has announced his retirement after 28 consecutive years in the House.

Only two senators and six representatives have held their seats in congress longer than Tinkham and none of them has done it with so little campaigning.

A veteran traveler since his days at Harvard when he junketed to such far places as the Greek islands in the Aegean and the windswept wastes of Iceland and Spitzenbergen, Tinkham has always managed to be off on one of his world jaunts while other congressmen were campaigning their heads off for re-election and he always has been voted back to his seat by substantial majority.

One year it was a 43,000-mile swing in 220 days to the islands of the South Pacific and the lands of the China Sea. Another year, he was hanging up a record for leopard shooting in British East Africa. He came back that time with the story that his bag of six leopards would have been one greater had not his native guide restrained him from going into the brush after the wounded cat. Tinkham had asked the guide: "Why should I lose a beautiful skin like that?" The guide answered: "To save your own beautiful skin."

Tinkham's apartment in the old Arlington hotel is a veritable museum of skins, stuffed heads, elephants' tusks, art and curios collected on these expeditions. His 28-year tenure of that apartment is one of the oldest and best Washington stories.

When he came here in 1914, he liked the apartment, found the rent cheap and leased it "for the duration of my stay in congress." It wasn't long before the hotel management discovered their mistake. Within a few years, rents for similar apartments were 400 per cent higher than Tinkham was paying.

Eventually, the Fraternal Order of Moose took over the hotel for national headquarters, the management went to court to try to get Tinkham ousted. The court held that only death or defeat at the polls could break Tinkham's lease.

Even after the government took over the building, Tinkham stayed on. First, it was Rexford Tugwell's Rural Resettlement administration, but they couldn't resettle Tinkham. Now the army occupies the building, and so does Tinkham.

His long fights for civil liberties, for strict U. S. neutrality, for non-participation in the League of Nations have kept him in the forefront of congress. But probably none of his battles was so stormy as his fight against prohibition and then for repeal.

During prohibition, when he was starting off on one of his junkets, he always announced solemnly to the newsmen: "Now I'm going down to the Department of Justice and tell them to keep an eye on my cellar until I get back."

A Farmer's Diary

Baby Chicks

—By CALVIN A. BYERS

IT WAS just another brooder house 12 feet square with a kerosene stove in the center and a sheet iron covering that reflected the heat downward toward the floor. The little structure stood on two logs used for skids. The farmer's heavy team had dragged it from the spot where it stood last year to a green, grassy plot beyond the garden, near the cornfield and near a tiny trickling stream.

On the afternoon I visited them, a car drove up and the driver delivered 300 baby White Rocks. "You won't need to feed them until tomorrow" he said, tipping up the lid so that we all might see the active yellow youngsters, scrambling over each other within the four divisions of the heavy pasteboard container.

The farmer hefted one stocky chick and smiled. "They're good looking stock," he said. "We're gettin' 'em later this year, but that'll save Mary tendin' 'em so many cold nights. Raisin' poultry isn't as simple as it looks. So many things can happen to taper off the profits."

"Last year," said Mary, "an old tomcat got in and killed a dozen before I found out what was doin' it. After I left 'em run a weasel climbed the netting and got 30. Was I sick that morning? But the year before, I made out fine—and this year I am hoping to do the same.

"When I was little, we used to set a dozen hens on 15 eggs apiece and we thought a hundred hens for fall laying was a good summer's work. 'Twas, too! The hens would fight, and disown their chicks, and break some of the eggs. One year, I remember the rats killed half of what we had! Most everybody thinks nothing of raising a large flock now, and this patent feed is balanced just right to make them grow. When we get our electric line, and can use electric brooders, it'll be still easier. Automatic feeders and waterers—new kinds of disinfectants and sanitary litter—every year at the fair they spring us something new! But at that, I think there's nothing much prettier around a farmyard than a big Plymouth Rock hen with a brood of little chicks."

"She's got a hen settin' now, down at the barn,—goin' to keep her just for looks"— declared the farmer, grinning.

FINDS CURVES VALUABLE IN SOUND CONTROL

Texas Scientist Improves On Acoustics With 'Pillar Walls and Ceilings.'

(By Wide World)

AUSTIN, Tex.—A new science of curves to stop noise and control sound has been developed at the University of Texas.

The curves do some things that regular sound-proofing cannot, and promise to carry on the making of a quieter world from the point where present sound-proofing stops.

The curves are like those of round posts and pillars. Walls made only of palisades would have these curves. But for sound control, the waves made by the cylindrical pillar forms are carefully selected, varying sometimes in symmetrical repetitions, and sometimes asymmetrical.

Ceilings are formed similarly, as if the roof were made of cylindrical beams side by side. Doors are likewise fluted. Windows will be where sound control requires.

Floors are a problem. They should be wave-form, too. Were it not for the prevailing heels of ladies' shoes, the problem could be solved by a metal grating above the floor. But the grating would have to be so open it would catch present-style heels.

C. P. Boner, University of Texas physicist, made his discovery when he went to work on a music studio where high tones dwindled.

When Dr. Boner measured the sounds he found more than the dwindling. In the range just below the highest tones, sounds were amplified. Their volume rose out of proportion to lower tones.

He removed all sound-proofing, and substituted bare, hard, polished walls, ceilings and floors. But these hard surfaces, except floors, were reconstructed in the wave-forms.

Every sound reflected from the hard surfaces, but due to the curves, the tones no longer reflected in straight lines, like marching men, but in a jumble of all directions.

Echoes never formed.

Much more is in prospect. Dr. Boner says that the curve control applies to most auditoriums. He thinks that halls of 5,000 to 8,000 seating capacity will be able to do away largely with amplifying systems for public speaking.

For sound-proofing interiors where racket is costly in fatigue and confusion, he proposes to use both the present absorbing materials and the curve controls.

OHIOAN, OTHERS GET SENTENCES

Linked To Theft of Tools That Held Up Defense Work.

DETROIT —(AP)— An escaped Ohio convict and three pawnbrokers received sentences in recorder's court yesterday in connection with the theft of precision instruments which upset a factory's defense production last August.

Leo J. Means, 42, identified by police as an escaped convict from the London, O., state prison farm and a former die maker, was sentenced to five to 20 years.

The pawnbrokers, Hyman Gottlieb, 38, Louis Arnoff, 52, and Leo Beichburger, pleaded guilty to conspiracy to receive stolen property and were placed on probation for one year.

TAKE SWORD OF FORMER ALLY

British Receive Surrender From Man Who Helped at Dunkirk.

LONDON —(INS)— The changing fortunes of war were vividly illustrated today when the British took Madagascar.

The man who surrendered on behalf of the outnumbered French army was Brigadier General Alfred Guillaumet, who proffered his sword to British Major General Sturges.

At Dunkirk in June, 1940, Guillaumet fought shoulder to shoulder with the British. He was cited for his personal courage and enterprise in aiding in the safe evacuation to England of almost 300,000 British and French troops.

COUNTY ACCEPTS $65,000 GIFT

Morrow Commissioners Receive Funds Left by Mail Carrier.

MT. GILEAD — Morrow county commissioners today accepted $65,000 left by the late Charles E. Parsons, retired farmer and rural mail carrier, for establishment of a home for crippled and needy children.

Walter W. Warwick of Toledo, a nephew of Parsons, recently filed suit to set aside the will which provided that in event the county did not want the money it would go to the Rural Carriers' association for a home for aged and crippled mail carriers.

Grads In Choral Club to Be Honored

The 1942 graduates of St. Peter's Choral club will be honored for their four years of service at the annual Mother's program next Tuesday afternoon at the school. The group of eight has sung regularly at both Sunday morning and afternoon services and not more than one or two absences, if any, have been marked against the members in the entire four-year period. Singers to be honored next week are shown, left to right, Charles Kenny, Raymond Dillon, Nicholas Schemine, Robert Kass, Paul Gabor, John Maurer, James Kurek and Raymond Nixon.

HITLER DEMANDS GIRAUD RETURN

Threatens to Suspend All Negotiations for Release of French Prisoners.

(By United Press),

Adolf Hitler is insisting on the return of 63-year-old Gen. Henri Honore Giraud to Germany and has threatened to suspend all negotiations for the release of French war prisoners unless Vichy authorities accede to his demands, European advices to the United Press said today.

These advices said that although Giraud was entirely a free man at present, the affair still was far from settled. He escaped from Koenigstein fortress, returned to France through Switzerland and is staying at his sister's estate near Lyons.

Giraud, who commanded the French army of the north during the 1940 campaign, reportedly has refused German demands to return to Koenigstein voluntarily or to sign an agreement not to take up arms against the Axis. It was said Admiral Jean Francois Darlan, commander of French army and naval forces, had assured German authorities that Giraud would be given no active command and placed him on the reserve list.

The United Press advices said Germany already has halted negotiations for the liberation of 7,000 French war prisoners with dependent families. These negotiations were said to have been virtually completed before Giraud's escape.

Average Married Man Faces Army or War Industry Job

men in war industries and those in non-essential jobs.

Boards are thumbing through 3-A lists by sequence of order numbers and are notifying registrants when they have been either reclassified or grouped as necessary or non-essential workers.

Selective service officials hope that "by making this distinction between essential and non-essential occupations" workers in the civilian activities will shift voluntarily to war work. If the shift is not made voluntarily, it was pointed out, a compulsory shifting of skilled workmen probably will be instituted by the U. S. employment service.

Draft officers believe that most skilled technicians with dependents will not be drafted for military service. It is believed the army prefers to secure the services of these men by surveying the professional ranks and offering special inducements to desirable men.

Goble said that when men with dependents are considered for military service, local boards will have regard for their occupation together with the degree of dependency that exists in each individual case.

He said orders had gone out to all local draft boards to speed reconsideration of the cases of 3-A men in order to provide men for future calls. The size and number of draft calls since the United States entered the war have increased "greatly" and it is likely that they will increase even more during the summer because of increasing numbers of recruits can be trained in summer encampments without the usually large amount of equipment.

"There have been a few instances where local draft boards have refused to put married men into class 1-A until the government provides some means of caring for dependents," Goble said. "Those boards already have recieved directives asking that this reclassification be carried out immediately and I want to emphasize that this work must be accomplished."

He said that 10 of the state's local boards had refused to carry out the classification pending enactment by congress of the allotment and allowance which would set aside monthly payments for dependents of men in the armed forces.

"Although men with dependents will not be called until the present emergency becomes more acute, it is necessary that we complete the reclassification as soon as possible so the men will be on hand when we need them," Goble said.

RAPS PLAN TO SEIZE AUTOS

Senator Says People of U. S. 'Pushed Around' Just to Satisfy Bureaucrats.

anyone convicted of driving faster than 40 miles an hour.

In the midst of this flare-up, the office of price administration sent out instructions to local rationing boards in 17 eastern seaboard states and the District of Columbia limiting "non-essential" motorists to from two to six gallons of gasoline a week after May 15.

The weekly allowance may be changed from time to time, depending "entirely on the supply" available, OPA said.

Price Administrator Leon Henderson and Undersecretary of War Robert P. Patterson were among the seven government officials who urged the senate military committee yesterday to approve the automobile seize-and-pay bill as part of the campaign to have rubber for military uses.

Johnson told reporters he was satisfied there was sufficient legal authority now for the government to take over any equipment it needed in the war program, and he saw no need for new legislation.

"I'm getting tired of unnecessarily pushing people around to satisfy the egotism of some bureaucrats," the Colorado senator declared. "The American people are anxious to make any sacrifices essential to the war effort, but they are getting tired of being pushed around."

With somewhat the same attitude, Senator Taft (R., Ohio) said he believed the objective could be accomplished by voluntary appeals to motorists to sell to the government any unneeded tires they had and to exercise care with those on their cars.

Chairman Reynolds (D., N. C.) predicted the committee would approve the legislation Saturday despite this opposition.

TAX PAYMENTS RUN AHEAD OF 6-MONTH BILL

Delinquency Payments Shove Receipts $27,609 Higher Than Was Charged.

Richland county property owners paid $707,041 in real estate taxes during the first half of this year, or $27,609 more than was due for the period, County Treasurer Charles C. Payne's records showed today.

The collection, one of the best since the prosperous late 1920's, amounted to 104 per cent of the half-year charge of $679,432.

The excess payments, the treasurer pointed out, represented delinquent taxes which had been carried over from preceding collections. The collection also included $17,874 in advance payments on the June tax bill which will not be payable until this summer.

While some property holders were paying their taxes ahead and making payments on old bills, others failed to pay their current taxes, the treasurer marking up $19,602 in delinquencies against the first-half collection.

The net reduction in delinquent taxes during the collection period was $11,820, leaving delinquencies totaling $141,727 as against $153,547 last year.

When the second-half collection begins later in the year, the total tax bill will amount to $681,159. Payments on delinquent bills will be accepted any time, the treasurer said.

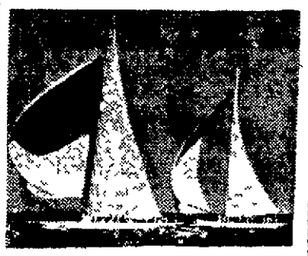
$25,000 Income Limit Spells Sacrifice!

(Wide World Features)

The little luxuries that make millionaires' lives worth living may soon be forgotten if President Roosevelt's proposed $25,000 income limit becomes law. Here are some of the things they may have todo without:



SAIL-HO and farewell to palatial yachts at $250,000 to 2½ millions.

PRIVATE swimming pools (this one's in Hollywood) will be memories.

THEY'RE OFF—the payroll; a small stable eats up $200,000 a year.

MILLION-DOLLAR ice cubes (like 124-carat Jonker diamond) are out.

IT'S JUST a little mansion (1-2 million dollars) but it was a home.

GOOD-BYE, Jeeves, and footmen, maids and other high-priced flunkies.

Volunteer Gets In Navy on His Fifth Attempt

ST. LOUIS — (INS) — His fifth attempt to volunteer for service in the Navy finally won success for 17-year-old Leland H. McMahon of Casey, Ill

McMahon came to the navy recruiting office in St Louis a year ago, when he was still 16 He was told he was too young He waited until his seventeenth birthday, and then appeared again at the recruiting office. Navy doctors told him he had a ruptured ear drum

McMahon returned later with his ear in good condition. He was turned down because of bad teeth. He had several teeth filled and came back to the recruiting office. Again the doctors told him his teeth were bad. So, McMahon had four more teeth filled, and returned to the recruiting office for the fifth time, and was passed by the doctors.

However, he was told that as soon as he reached a training station he would have to report to the hospital—to have his tonsils removed.

Municipal employes of Sacramento, Calif, have been classified for civilian defense on the belief that they would be more valuable for emergency service than privately employed volunteers

'KEEPING UP WITH JONESES' GOAL FOR ALL AMERICANS

PHILADELPHIA — If the rest of America "keeps up with the Joneses," Uncle Sam shouldn't have too much trouble winning this war—and the peace that follows.

The Joneses are Papa Phillip Jones, Mama Jones, and four children, Newell, 24, Philip, jr., 22, Barbara, 20, and Carol, 16. They are from Shelton, Conn., and they won the third national Gimbel award and a check for $1,000.

A scroll accompanying the check described the family as "typical of countless families in these United States who are doing their magnificent bit in their daily living and in their communities for freedom and for defense."

Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt originally suggested that a family instead of an individual receive the award. A committee member picked the Joneses, and an investigator lined up these facts about the Connecticut farm dwellers:

Philip Jones works a dairy farm, arising at 5 a. m daily to help milk 30 cows He's on the local defense committee and he's trying to increase production as his contribution toward winning the war.

Mrs. Jones belongs to the women's defense committee, has a large garden of her own, is a member of the state agricultural planning committee — and brings up the Joneses.

Newell is a private in the army medical corps at an air base in Manchester, N. H.—a draftee. Before his induction, he conducted a welding school for boys interested in defense work. As a 4-H club member, he raised bees, poultry and turkeys.

Philip, jr., helps with the farm and acts as an air raid warden. He's planted 20,000 evergreens as a 4-H member; rents bees to other farmers for fertilization and does some checking for the agricultural administration.

Next comes Barbara, a scholarship holder and junior at Connecticut State college. The young lady is vice-president of the school's 4-H club; runs a day camp in summer for children and knits for the Red Cross.

Carol Jones, 16, the baby of the family, is organizing a first-aid course for her 4-H club. She's looking around for national defense needs that a young girl can "fix up."

Immediately after presentation of the $1,000 award at a banquet in Philadelphia, the Joneses announced they'd have to be leaving soon. "Funny thing about cows," said Barbara, "they have to be milked every day."

BANQUET HELD

GALION—Members of the Research club closed a year's program Tuesday evening when they held their annual banquet at the First Methodist church.

Thirty-five members heard the president, Mrs. D. K. Davis give the welcome, then introduce the new president, Lucy Ailer.

A MESSAGE OF IMPORTANCE TO

PARENTS OF OUR BOYS IN THE SERVICE

On Sunday, May 17th, The Mansfield News-Journal will publish a "Thumbs-Up" Edition honoring Mansfield's men and women in Uncle Sam's Armed Forces.

In the "Thumbs-Up" Edition pictures and permissible information about the boys will be published. It is planned to use nothing but the very latest material, this in view of the ever changing military picture which affects almost every man in the service.

Because of the very large number of men now in the Armed Forces, pictures and write-ups in "Thumbs-Up" Edition on May 17th will be confined to men from Greater Mansfield including the communities of South Boulevards, East Mansfield, Lincoln Heights, Roseland, Coolridge Heights and South Hills. Men from Richland County and North Central Ohio rural and urban communities will be recognized in a simular way at an early later date.

The "Thumbs-Up" Edition will be a connecting link between all the folks here on the Home Front and our boys at their stations all over the world.

May 17th will be observed nationally as "I Am An American Day" in accordance with a proclamation by President Roosevelt. We believe that the publication in The News-Journal on that day of the pictures and stories of Mansfield Men in Armed Forces will provide inspiration of highest order for American Citizenship.

Mindful of the interest that relatives, neighbors and friends of Mansfield sailors and soldiers in the "Thumbs-Up" Edition a simple and practical plan for the collection and handling of pictures and information is outlined in this advertisement.

1. For sending in pictures and information use the coupon which is printed below as a part of this announcement. The pictures sent in should, if possible, be of recent date. To print satisfactorily, the picture should be in sharp focus with no shadows across the face. Glossy prints are preferred. Pictures sent in are returnable. (If The News-Journal has already used a picture of the service man in question, this may be indicated in the coupon and the picture can be taken from the file and used again.)

2. The information about service men in the May 17th, "Thumbs-Up" Edition must be provided on the coupon blank which appears below with this announcement. It is probable that your son, brother or friend has been mentioned frequently in The News-Journal's column about our "Neighbors In the Service." That material will be disregarded in the "Thumbs-Up" Edition in the interest of providing only the very latest information on every service man. Thus the blank must be filled out and forwarded to The News-Journal at once.

3. The deadline for both pictures and information for the May 17th "Thumbs-Up" Edition is Tuesday, May 12th.

4. Arrangements have been made at The Mansfield News-Journal to accommodate relatives and friends wishing to send the "Thumbs-Up" Edition to men at camp or stations abroad. Simply call at The News-Journal office, Fourth and Walnut Streets.

"Thumbs-Up" Edition May 17

Deadline For Pictures and Information Tuesday, May 12

Fill out this coupon blank and send to the Service Editor, Mansfield News-Journal at once. Deadline is Tuesday, May 12th.

MANSFIELD NEWS-JOURNAL,
MANSFIELD, OHIO

ASHLAND OPENS REGISTRATION OF NURSE AIDS

Classes to Be Organized and Started May 18 at Hospital, Red Cross Says.

ASHLAND—Registration for a Volunteer Nurses' Aid Corps instruction began yesterday at Red Cross headquarters. Classes are to be organized and start at Samaritan hospital on Monday, May 18.

The course is open to all Ashland county women from 18 to 50 years of age who are high school graduates or have equivalent education and are in satisfactory physical condition. They must be American citizens.

The course will include 80 hours of instruction at Samaritan hospital, the course being divided into two units with the first part of the course being class work and the second unit being practice work. Upon completion of the course they will serve as an aide to a graduate serving without remuneration.

Their duties as an aid include making beds, giving baths, taking temperatures, pulse and respiration, assisting with nonsterile dressings and applying casts and slings. During the emergency, they are required to give 150 hours a year of service and must be prepared to serve in local hospitals, casualty stations or first aid posts.

Miss Bessie Marie Easly, instructor at Samaritan hospital and a registered Red Cross nurse, will be in charge of instruction of the Nurses' Aide Corps.

Plans for the training course are under the direction of a committee composed of Mrs. L. G. Sheets, general chairman, Mrs. T. W. Miller, vice chairman, Miss Easly, instructor, Miss Melissa M. Dailey, Samaritan hospital superintendent, Mrs. S. F. Jameson, Mrs. Ethel Switzer, Red Cross executive secretary, Mrs. Robert Heichel, Mrs. Charles Freer and Dr. Kellogg of the Civilian Defense Medical and Surgical committee. When applicants register for the course there will be an interview with a member of the committee to determine whether or not an applicant meets the requirements for entering the course.

Chicago Plants Aid Huge U. S. Plane Program

CHICAGO—(ANS)—Chicago aircraft part plants, stepping up production with increasing repidity, are playing a vital role in the drive to give America 185,000 fighting planes by the end of 1943.

This was disclosed by the Aeronautical Chamber of Commerce after a survey of war plane building showed that the Chicago metropolitan industrial district is one of the most important subcontracting centers in the world's plane production.

Wings, fuselages, engines, engine mounts, fire walls, precision instruments and mechanisms are included, the chamber said, in the steady stream of items flowing to assembly plants throughout the nation.

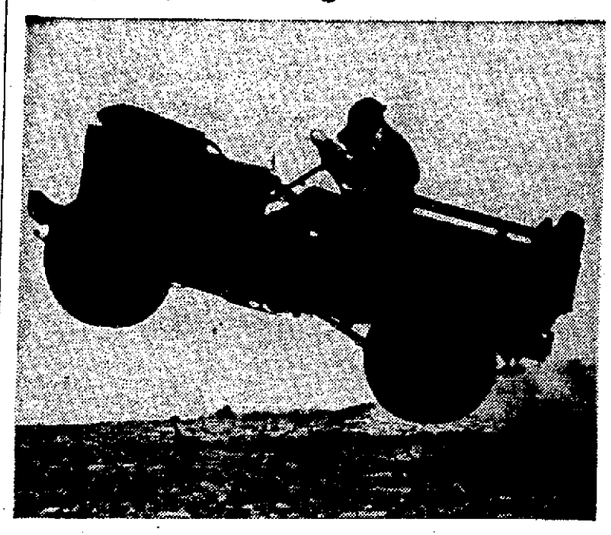
The survey disclosed that nearly 10,000 subcontracts have been let to manufacturers throughout the country and that another 20,000 contracts have been let to vendors of parts and material.

SURGEON TALKS

BUCYRUS—Child Conservation league members heard an interesting talk by Dr. John S. Kiess, local physician and surgeon, at their meeting Tuesday night at the home of Mrs. George McBeth. Dr. Kiess discussed latest discoveries in the field of sulpha drugs, describing their benefits to mankind. It was the last meeting of the season for the circle.

In the tenth century The Scots borrowed a linen-smoother of black glass from the Vikings to do their ironing.

They Fly Through the Air---



These boys from the 107th Cavalry, now a mechanized unit, are having lots of fun putting a jeep through its paces at Fort Ord, Cal. Used to bucking horses, they don't mind a bit having four tires off the ground at one time.

HONOR BRIDE

BUCYRUS—Mrs. Wilbur Stuckert, recent bride, was feted with a shower at the meeting of Gloria circle of King's Daughters at the home of Mrs. Denyne Penny. She was presented with miscellaneous gifts from the members and a wedding gift from the circle.

Plans were made for the annual Mother's dinner to be held May 11 at the King's Daughter chapter house. Miss Ruthe Carson was appointed chairman of the entertainment committee.

Murder On the Avenue

By Carolyn Wells

(Copyright, 1942.)

CHAPTER II.

"Have you really a Gerald Vance?" asked Martin Delevan, an artist of the new school.

"Yes, a small one. But he made it especially for me. It's a pearwood carving."

They went upstairs again, and on a shelf, that ran all the way round the walls, stood the statuette.

It was a beautiful thing, to those who could understand it. Martin Delevan was enraptured. He began a dissertation on the new art, and Vance's work, which was more than Alma could stand, and she started a game of skittles to make a diversion.

This brought Delevan's speech to a close, and then a few more of the guests went home and the rest went to the bar.

Ogden Murray found an opportunity to speak to Alma alone. They were in a small card room on the lower floor, and Alma told him plainly that she could not talk about their business then for they were liable to be interrupted at any moment.

"Then let me come to see you tomorrow," he suggested. "We must get this matter settled up, you know. The opportunity will not be held open much longer."

"Why not?"

"My dear girl, I don't know. But I know it won't. If you won't accept my offer there are others who will. Who is that? Alma, there is someone at the door. I thought you locked it."

"I did. No one can come in. But I must go now, and you can't come here tomorrow. Hugh would think it queer. Meet me somewhere."

"All right. At the Chandos, at two, for a bit of lunch, and we can settle it."

"Very well If I can't make it I'll telephone in the morning."

"You must make it! Understand?"

"No, I don't understand, and I shall do as I please."

"Unless you do as I please, you will understand."

They went back to the others.

"You're jittery, Alma,' said Nadine, as her hostess rejoined them at the bar. "You were shut up in that little reception room, with somebody Who was he?"

"No one interested in you, dear Don't distress yourself about me Brand, fix me a nice long mild drink, will you?"

"I'll make it, Alma," Van Dyke offered "I know a new one; you'll like it."

"Then you sit by me, Brand. I want to tell you something."

"I want to sit by you, Mrs. McLeod" Doctor Lloyd took the place she had meant for Herrick.

"Yes, do," she smiled at him. "And you can take my pulse, and calm Nadine's nerves."

Suddenly Foo Chow came to them. After a formal bow, he said:

"Misser MacAllowed go topside to see the Old Father. He velly muchee sick, and Misser MacAllowed say Doctor Lulloyd go up to him. He show way."

"Oh, go right away, Doctor," Alma said. "Doctor Larkin has gone home. It's probably one of Hugh's father's sinking spells."

Lloyd left with the Chinese.

"Why do you talk that gibberish," the doctor asked his guide. "You are an educated man."

"Yes, sir, but my lady likes me to talk so, it amuses her and entertains her guests. I think the old man is not worse than usual, but Miss Emmy is alarmed."

He led the doctor to the little staircase, opened its door, and Lloyd went up alone.

* * *

Emmy met him and took him at once to her father's bedside, a quick diagnosis told the doctor that it was a temporary faintness.

"I'm an ill mon, doctor," said old Angus. "Do give me a tideover, I wadna dee while the pairty is here"

"You're far from dying while you can talk so clearly. But I will give you a dose, and then you must have a good sleep."

"Aye, aye" The invalid's eyes closed.

Lloyd gave him medicine, and waited to see its effects.

The doctor stepped into the next room, and Hugh followed him.

"Your father will not die tonight," Lloyd told the anxious man. "He may live a few weeks, perhaps longer. Much depends on his being kept quiet. If he has too much excitement, it will be bad for him. Dr. Larkin is a splendid man, and understands the case."

"Do you think we ought to ask the people downstairs to go home?"

"Oh, no; he cannot hear them, and it would be a pity to break up Mrs. McCleod's pleasure."

"Is it pleasure?" asked Hugh. "I thought she seemed languid Do you think she will get overtired?"

"No, indeed. She is a bit worried lest you think she ought to send her friends away, but I hope you won't ask her to do that."

"Indeed, no; since you say she is all right. I am a sort of comfort to my sister. And I am not needed downstairs, but I will look in on them now and then, to please Alma"

"What are you going to do to please Alma?" said a soft voice, his wife took his arm and drew it round herself.

"Anything that will add to her happiness. Doctor Lloyd says I can go downstairs and stay, if you wish, but I would rather spend part of the time with father."

"So you shall, my darling. How is Emmy?"

"Brave as can be."

Hearing Alma's voice, Emmy came to them. "Father is very low, Alma," she said.

"Yes, dear, I know. I am so sorry for you, and I wish I could help in some way."

Emmy gave a sniff which said as clearly as words, "Pouf for your silly talk' It means nothing!"

And Emmy was right. Alma's one idea was to get away from the sick-room atmosphere, and from her husband's relatives. She kissed Emmy's cheek and patted her shoulder, and then started down the little stair.

"I'll go with you," Hugh said. "Lloyd will stay for a little, and then I'll come back."

* * *

They went down, and Alma went to her own dressing-room to take a look at herself. Hugh followed, saying, "Give me a kiss before you put any more of that red stickum on your lips!"

She laughed, granted his request and then, with a few light touches to her make-up, she was ready to go downstairs.

They left the room by a door opposite to the one by which they had entered, and passed through one of the guest rooms, which was turned into a men't coat room. This opened into a small alcove which was part of the hall. The plan of the apartment was complicated, and the hall made two turns before they reached the head of the marble stair.

They went to the bar, and Alma bade Van make one of his newfangled recipes for Hugh.

Presently Hugh went away, and Alma said: "Why don't we have a dance? Will you be my partner, Mr. Delevan?"

"With great joy." The artist rose with an air of importance and came to her.

They crossed the hall and stood near the door of the dance room, waiting for the others. Martin Delavan took up his favorite subject.

"You are in great luck to have a bit of Vance's work. It is one of his masterpieces. You understand it?"

"Oh, yes, in my simple way. I can't talk the lore of the studio, though."

"Then don't try. The most terrible thing in the world is the serious talk of an ignorant man"

"Yes, isn't it? And most talkers on serious subjects are ignorant."

"You mean most of those you hear."

"I admit that. I know few people intellectually worthwhile."

"What a pity! I must help you. Will you come some time to my studio parties?"

"I'm not sure I think I'm frightened of them"

They were dancing slowly.

"Then you cannot be happy. Fear kills happiness"

"Not in my case. I'm afraid only of things or people that I do not understand. So, I must avoid them, to preserve my happiness."

"Ah, yes; you have your vanity, the vanity of ignorance."

Alma began to think this man was trying to annoy her.

"Yes, I have," she returned, with a charming smile. "And it contents me." She had glanced at Haynes, and willingly enough he came to them and took Alma from her partner.

As they danced off, she said: "He is the stupidest person. Do you know him?"

"He is a celebrity."

"Yes, I know, but he doesn't please me. Now run me up against Brand, I want to speak to him."

"But Alma, you haven't given me a moment this whole night! You must stay with me now!"

"No! You heard what I said!"

"But I have something for you —a present."

"Oh, you dear! But you can give it to me later. I must see Brand. There he is—turn this way!"

Van Dyke obeyed, everybody obeyed Alma. As they reached Herrick, she said, "Our dance, I believe," and put a hand on his shoulder.

"I've been waiting for you," he said, and they danced.

* * *

Brand Herrick liked beautiful women—and he greatly admired Alma—but he resented any hint of invitation on their part. He wanted to conquer not to be enslaved. Sometimes Alma bored him by a seeming insistence on his attentions.

But now, her lovely eyes were looking into his own, and she was assuming an imperial air, which won him completely.

"I want to ask you something," she said. "Take me over toward the hall door."

They danced to the door, and then, as they stood a moment, she said, "Follow me," and went swiftly, ahead of him into a side hall.

"What's this place?" he said, gaily. "Looks like adventure!"

"It is Open that door."

Herrick obeyed, and saw a tiny, beautifully appointed automatic elevator "Where does this thing go?"

"Up to my own rooms. It's my escape in case of bores."

"I see. You don't propose to take me up to your rooms, do you?"

"Not in the face of your evident unwillingness. But I want to talk to you a little."

"Oh, come now, Alma, why not talk in civilized fashion?"

"You look so handsome when you are put out! I adore you."

"Well, put me out of this. Then I might adore you, but not shut up in this box!"

"Oh, Brand, how I wish you would love me! I believe you do, only you're afraid to say so, on Hugh's account."

"Nonsense I'm afraid for your reputation. Suppose some one sees us shut up in this place!"

"Oh, well, then, we may as well get out"

"Better. And I don't mean to be hateful, dear, but—"

"But you are hateful! Kiss me, then, and we'll get out of this. I thought you'd like it."

"I like you, but you mustn't behave like a child!"

"Oh, very well, open the door. And I won't forget the secret about you,—that you told me not to tell!"

Herrick's face took on a stern expression, "Don't you ever dare tell that!" he exclaimed angrily. "Remember, Alma, you promised, you swore you'd never tell." Alma turned a little catch, and then she opened the door of the elevator. They stepped out, and she drew his head down and whispered: "I didn't get my kiss, you must give it to me before you leave."

She laughed roguishly and ran away. As she turned a corner of the hallway, she saw Dickson, Hugh's man. She smiled at him, laid her finger on her lip and ran on.

When she saw Brand Herrick had returned to the dance room, she went back to the little elevator and rode up to her own rooms.

Again she sat at her dressing table, and touched up her face.

"He's too much of a prig," she said to herself. "I have to take a rise out of him now and then."

She started to go back downstairs, taking the short cut through the coat room. To her surprise, Brand Herrick was in the room, looking for his coat.

"Not going?" she said, with a casual air.

"Yes. I must; it's nearly four."

Alma closed the door, went to him and put her arms around his neck.

"Then give me my kiss before you go."

"Now, now, Alma—"

"Now, now, Brand!" she said.

SOCIETY & CLUBS

JUNIOR SOROSIS HAS NEW NAME, OFFICERS

Reorganization Meeting Held Wedneday Night at the Home of Mrs. Andrew Mott; Program Presented.

WHEN members of the Mansfield Junior Sorosis club met last evening at the home of Mrs. Andrew Mott, 128½ Washington street, the business session was devoted to reorganization of the group. The name was dissolved and the club will now be known as Beta chapter of the Mansfield Sorosis. A new constitution also was adopted.

Officers elected for the chapter are the following: president, Mrs. W. W. Mickey; vice president, Mrs. Alden Lash; secretary, Mrs. Eugene Linham, and treasurer, Miss Dorothy Moser. Meetings will be held every two weeks on Wednesday night and programs will be devoted to literary subjects.

Annual dinner and theater party were planned for the next meeting, to be held on May 20. The new officers will be installed at that time. Committee in charge of arrangements is comprised of Miss Moser, chairman, Mrs. A. H. Moellenkamp and Mrs. Linham. Place for the party will be announced later.

For last night's program, Mrs. Virt Simpson presented an informative paper on "United States Bonds and Stamps." An enjoyable paper on "Interesting Stories of Mansfield and Richland County," was given by Miss Esther Snyder. In her talk Miss Snyder told about the first white settler in this vicinity and the history of the block houses on the public square, as well as many other interesting, historic tales.

Group Enjoys Card Games In Club Rooms

Seven tables of five hundred and four tables of bridge were in play when the Catholic Ladies of Columbia met in their club rooms in the Bird building for a social time Tuesday evening. Mrs. C. C. Crosby was chairlady. Prizes in five hundred were won by Mrs. Grace Dillon and Mrs. M. M. Vogel. Mrs. Clarence Stuhldreher and Mrs. G. M. Risacher were recipients of the awards in bridge.

Door prize went to Mrs. Crosby. Following the card games luncheon was served by Mrs. Crosby and her committee. The group will have a business meeting in the club rooms on May 19. The final game in the tournament will be played at that time.

Reminiscence Club Aids Victory Drive

Reminiscence club members were entertained by Mrs. S. B. White at her home, 187 Gerke avenue, Wednesday afternoon. Time was spent playing hearts. Prizes were won by Mrs. Eva Phillips and Mrs. Dora Strimple. Mrs. White was recipient of the club prize.

Each member contributed articles to the drive for casualty station supplies. Money usually spent for luncheon was contributed instead to war funds. Mrs. Clarence Myers, South Boulevards, will be hostess to the group on June 3.

J. D. Wilcox Class Enjoys 'Victory Party'

A "Victory Party" was enjoyed by members of the J. D. Wilcox class of the First Christian church following the regular monthly meeting at Prospect park pavilion last evening.. Fifty were in attendance.

Meeting was opened with prayer by Rev. B. F. Hagelbarger. After a bugle call the group sang the "Star Spangled Banner." Upon conclusion of the business session luncheon was served at a table decorated in red, white and blue.

Committee in charge of arrangements included Mr. and Mrs. William Hammett, Mr. and Mrs. Floyd Thompson, Mr. and Mrs. Raymond McMichael, Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Davis, Mr. and Mrs. Bryan Miller and Mr. and Mrs. David Hughes. Guest speaker was Robert Horn.

AT PARISH HOUSE.

Thirteen members of Ladies Bible class No. 13 were present Wednesday afternoon for the regular meeting which was held in the parish house of the First Lutheran church. The president, Mrs. Birdie Finney, was in charge of devotions and the business session. A knick-knack luncheon was served

Clubs Observes 14th Anniversary At Ballietts

All members of the Golden Link club observed the 14th anniversary of the group Wednesday afternoon when Mrs. S. E. Balliett, 107 Marquis court, entertained at her home. The hostess spoke on the social activities and charity work carried on by the members during the past year.

Readings and music were the diversions of the social hour, after which cards were enjoyed. Prizes were won by Mrs. Samuel Yeater, a guest, and Mrs. Clementine Myers.

Ivory and gold was the color scheme used for the table appointments when refreshments were served at a long table, illuminated by candlelight. The next meeting will be held on June 3 at the Staiger Tea Room, Glessner avenue.

Delta Chapter Honors Mothers At Dinner Party

Delta chapter members of the Tri Hamma sorority entertained in honor of their mothers last evening at the Colonial Guest House, Wooster road. Dinner was served at one long table attractive with pink and orchid appointments. Hostesses for the party were Mrs. L. C. Smaltz, Mrs. Harry Hollingsworth and Mrs. Harry Rist.

Mrs. Smaltz offered a toast to the mothers and Mrs. J. B. Weigel responded to the daughters. The members presented each guest with a handkerchief and a favor.

Bingo was the diversion of the social hour with prizes being won by Mrs. W. J. Harrison and Mrs. Weigel. The next regular meeting will be held May 27 at the home of Mrs. Lowell Moore, Bowland road, with Mrs. Parker O'Brien as associate hostess.

Choir Parents Elect Officers

George Knackstedt was elected president of the Senior high school Choir Parents' club at a meeting Monday evening at the North Lake park pavilion. Dinner was served at 6 p. m. after which the annual business meeting was held.

Other officers chosen were Clarence Ulrich, vice president; M. W. McKee, secretary; and Charles Edmonstone, treasurer. The latter, dressed in Scotch costume, entertained the group with songs. Mrs. Knackstedt and Mrs. Strohminger were awarded the prizes. On June 15 the club will hold a basket picnic at North Lake park.

Boogie Woogie Club Plans Wiener Roast

Miss Margaret Crowl entertained members of the Boogie Woogie club at her home, 125 Dawson avenue, Tuesday evening. Prizes in five hundred were won by the Misses Billie McQuillen and Violet O'Brien. Luncheon was served at a table decorated with spring flowers and individual favors.

Mrs. Rosalind Bucker was presented with a birthday gift from the club. Guests for the evening were the Misses Eva Dorner and Mary Baker. Hostess for the next meeting will be Miss Bucker. The group will have a wiener roast in Middle park at 6.30 p. m. on May 19.

FAREWELL PARTY.

Mrs. Paul Bell, who left this morning to make her home in Columbus, was guest of honor at a farewell party given Tuesday evening at the home of Mrs. Carmen Adovasio, 219 West Fourth street. She was presented with gifts by the hostess and the following guests: Mrs. Robert Weltner, Mrs. James Gills, Miss Rosemary Wood and Miss Ann Calvert. Luncheon was served at the dining room table which was decorated with a floral centerpiece. Color scheme was pink and yellow.

To Be Graduated Tonight

—Photos by Montrose, Columbus

The Misses Josephine Mascazine, left, and Veronica Gruber will be graduated tonight from Mt. Carmel School of Nursing at Columbus. Both are graduates of St. Peter's high school. Miss Mascazine is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Louis Mascazine, 495 Lily street, and Miss Gruber is the daughter of John Gruber, 306 Miller street.

Leo Hans to Be Guest Artist For Recital

Leo Hans, tenor soloist, will be guest artist when Mrs. E. D. Gibson presents four of her violin pupils in a recital at the American Legion ballroom Tuesday evening, May 12. Friends and relatives of the musicians are being invited to attend.

Piano accompaniment for George Porterfield, who will open the program, will be played by George Tuttle, instructor at John Simpson Junior high school. David Weimer, pupil of Mrs. George W. Hall, will accompany a violin solo by Richard Beilstein.

William Klinger, winner in the Federation of Music clubs' competition, will be accompanied by his cousin, Albert Smith, jr., of Galion, pupil of Miss Bessie Todd. Special number will be rendered by a trio comprised of George Porterfield and Allen Sanford, violinists, and Ernest Schaffer, well known Mansfield cellist. Their piano accompaniment will be furnished by Walter Simon, pupil of Mrs. Marie Porterfield. Mr. Simon also will accompany numbers on the latter part of the program by the violin quartet.

The four young violinists are well known in this part of the state for their appearances as a quartet. They will appear Sunday morning at St. John's Evangelical church and on May 16 they will be guests of Miss Nellie McFadden of Mt. Vernon for a program in that city.

Plan Memorial Service For Auxiliary, No. 100

Auxiliary Plans Memorial Day Celebration

Preparations for Memorial Day celebration were discussed at last night's meeting of Sarah Pfeifer Auxiliary No. 4 to the Sons of Union Veterans of the Civil War and the arrangements will be completed at the next meeting. The Wednesday session was held at the courthouse, with Mrs. W. B. Trisler in charge.

Mrs. Mary Jacobs was installed as chaplain. Report was made of gifts presented by the Auxiliary to soldiers, sailors and draftees. The following committee was appointed to serve on the campaign for sale of war savings bonds: Mrs. Trisler, Mrs. Carl Sattler, Mrs. Harry Constance and Mrs. Naomi Sahalyo. Donation was made toward the bombs for the MacArthur bomber.

Next meeting will be held at Prospect park pavilion on May 20. Supper will be served at 6 p. m. and will be followed by the business session.

Mothers' Day Tea To Be on Sunday

Plans have been completed for a Mothers' day tea to be held in the auxiliary rooms of the American Legion home Sunday afternoon by members of the Junior American Legion Auxiliary. Tea will be served to all juniors and their mothers and Legion guests from 3 to 5 p. m. A special program of music has been arranged.

The juniors with their director and assistant director, Miss Dora McLeod and Mrs Emma Young, will serve as hostesses for the social hour.

The group met recently at the Legion home to plan for the affair. Miss Marjorie Hegnauer, president, conducted the business session. Patriotic rituals opened the meeting. A picnic has also been planned to be held at Middle park in the near future.

OFFICERS ELECTED BY RAINBOW GIRLS

Arrangements Completed at Last Night's Meeting for "Hard Times" Party to Be Held May 15 at Pavilion.

ELECTION of officers was held when members of the Rainbow for Girls met last evening in the K. of P. hall. Those chosen to serve during the coming year are Betty Hamman, worthy advisor; Jean Buell, worthy associate advisor; LaVonne Hunter, sister of charity; Martha Jane Friday, sister of hope; and Mary McCartney, sister of faith.

Installation will be held sometime in the latter part of May. Date and place will be announced later. Final arrangements were made last night for the "Hard Times" party to be held on Friday, May 15, at Prospect park pavilion. DeMolay boys will be guests of the Rainbow girls. Committee in charge of the party consists of Dorothy Freck, Melba DeWitt and Betty Lou Sipes.

In order to "do their bit" in the victory campaign, the Rainbow girls have again pledged their assistance to the U. S. O. drive which will be conducted during the second week in June. Next regular meeting will be held in the K. of P. hall on May 20.

Church Class Makes Books for Charity Groups

Twenty-five members of the Findlay-Anderson Bible class of the United Presbyterian church were entertained Wednesday evening at the home of Mrs. A. E. Courtney, Sherman avenue. One guest, Miss Lucille Day, was in attendance. Associate hostesses were Miss Katherine and Flossie Courtney.

Devotions were led by Mrs. George Reil, who also conducted the business session. The remainder of the evening was spent in making scrap books for various institutions. Dogwood formed a pretty bouquet for the buffet luncheon table.

The next meeting will be held June 3 at the home of Mrs. William Druschel, Helen avenue. Associate hostesses will be Mrs. R. D. Anderson and Mrs. Orlan Hoyer.

PHILOMATHIAN CLUB.

Mrs. Charles Siegenthaler, Forest Hill road, was hostess last evening to members of the Philomathian club. Nineteen were in attendance for the program which was presented by Mrs. Tom Mowry, who told of her recent visit to Camp Hoke, La. At the close of the evening refreshments were served. The next meeting on May 20 will be held at the home of Mrs. Frances O'Brien, Parkview street.

Mrs. John Heath Elected to Head Bible Club Group

Mrs. John Heath was elected president of the Ruth-Naomi Bible club Wednesday afternoon when the annual business meeting was held at the home of Mrs. J. H. Mollenkop, 82 Rowland avenue. Assisting her with club activities during the coming season will be Mrs. A. H. Au, vice president; Mrs. John Howard, secretary; Mrs. R. E. Race, assistant secretary; Mrs. Daisy White, sunshine secretary; Mrs. W. A. Schrack, assistant sunshine secretary.

This meeting brought to a close the year's Bible study. Various members reviewed the last eight chapters of the Book of Acts. Eleven members in attendance participated in the roll call. Mrs. Au led the devotions and Mrs. E. B. Davis presided during the business session.

Plans were made to hold a guest party on May 20 at the home of Mrs. C. C. Vermilya, Penn avenue.

Warrant Officers In Naval Reserve

By BEATRICE FAIRFAX

Dear Miss Fairfax:

I'd like to have the following information concerning a Warrant Officer in the Naval Reserve: What is the salary range? Does he get clothing allowance and rations? Who is his superior officer next in rank? What are the chief duties?

M. J.

The Navy department has replied to your inquiries as follows: Base pay for first six years is $153 a month. After that $168. Over 12 years, $189 a month. Additional rent allowance is $40 a month, and subsistence, $18 a month.

The first appropriation for uniform is $100 and every four years an additional $50 is allowed the Warrant Officer. When on active duty and during war time, he is paid $150 extra.

His superior officer next in rank is the Chief Warrant Officer.

His duties depend entirely on what branch of the service he enters. He may be a boatswain, a machinist, electrician, carpenter, radio technician, etc.

Dear Miss Fairfax:

While I'm an American citizen and an American soldier, I was born in London and lived there until I was 12 years of age, when I came to this country with my parents. I believe you have to experience British fogs to know what tea means to an Englishman.

I read in the paper the other day that an American colonel, assigned to speed production in an airplane factory in Australia, just couldn't grasp the Aussie's tea-drinking. He said he knew the habit couldn't be eliminated "so we used an army jeep to bring the stuff into the factory and thus saved 45 minutes of the time."

Doesn't the colonel know you can get twice as much work out of an Englishman when he's had his tea than if he's deprived of it?

Cockney American.

We realize what a cup of tea does for an Englishman or a colonial, and I'm delighted the tea is wheeled in rather than make the boys do without.

"Pitfalls of Love"

(A Sequel to Marriage Meddlers)

By ADELE GARRISON

I put down with an iron hand the elation I felt at the news Gus brought that my vigil was ended. I needed all my poise and focused attention for the details of our journey back to New York. I could not even spend a second in malicious satisfaction in the knowledge of Jack Bickett's masquerade which I meant to display when I should be back in my father's armored car and well started on our way.

"Where is the captain?" I asked.

"Getting ready to go to the hospital with his men. They're taking the one that was wounded down there, but he's coming over here for a minute first, he says. There he is now."

I looked around. Professor Diswell's living room to make sure that I had left no stray glove or handkerchief or scrap of paper in it.

All Ready to Go.

Then I opened my purse and made sure that the carved ivory cube which my mother had given long ago to Jack Bickett, and which I had found in the secret floor compartment of the adjoining room, was where I had thrust it, wrapped in a handkerchief, when Sadie's telephone call with its revelation of Professor Diswell's call from "Shawn Rue" interrupted my debate with myself as to what I should do with it.

I had time only for a mental comment that my discovery of Jack's masquerade as Charles, Professor Diswell's servant, had solved that problem for me, before the captain of the state troopers appeared on the doorstep. Close at his heels came one of his men, who stepped to one side while his superior officer talked to me.

"All ready to go, I see," the captain said. "I hope Sadie was helpful."

There was no curiosity in his tone, and I sensed that he was in a hurry to get his wounded man to the hospital. Therefore, I made my reply brief.

"Very helpful, indeed," I said emphatically. "What she said solved a puzzling problem for me."

"I'm glad of that," he said. "Now if you're ready, Smith, here will take charge of the cottage."

Grateful to Captain.

"That is fine, I said, moving away from the door and holding out my hand. "And I do want to thank you, Captain, for myself and my father, for all you have done."

"It's all in the day's work, you know," he said, shaking my hand cordially.

"But I trust you do not have such strenuous work every day," I countered, smiling.

"No, we don't," he admitted with an answering smile. "But we have had worse days than this. Now if you'll just come this way, your car came back up here when Branchman brought the two men back who impersonated the old man and his aide. They certainly did a good job, didn't they?"

"Very skillful work," I agreeed. Then I was walking by his side through the perennial garden and the wild flower garden to the cleared space in the woods where my father's armored car had been hidden before I first knocked at Professor Diswell's door.

Gus Makes a Protest.

Five cars stood there, two of the state troopers, the smaller one the Warren store keeper, Branchman, my father's armored car, and the other bigger one, also armored, which had brought the four gangsters to the rendezvous with two of their number who had come first to the cottage and bound and gagged the old professor and Jack, before making up to impersonate them.

"I want to look at the captured men before I go," I told the captain.

Before he could answer, Gus, just behind me, sounded an agonized protest.

"Don't you do that, Missis Graham. Your father, he would not like that. Those men, they see you and they blame you for what has happened to them. And if they don't get out for a hundred years, they never forget, and they always watch for a chance to get even with you."

HOROSCOPE

By GENEVIEVE KEMBLE

For Friday, May 8.

Perplexity, confusion and probably keen disappointment are the adverse aspects dominant in this day's planetary chart. Affairs generally may be subject to this disturbing condition although the intimate affairs are more likely to be affected, with romance and other emotional relations subject to surprising or erratic development. Sudden change of a radical and uprooting force may be encountered, with disruptive visitations in home or love affairs. Sound judgment, discreet and regulated conduct are enjoined especially in dealings with the opposite sex. Be alert to duplicity.

Those whose birthday it is may find themselves plunged into a year of deception, imposition, disruption and disappointment, particularly in the domestic, social, or emotional life. Obstacles and frustration may prove upsetting, but if radical change be necessary be discreet, moderate and regular rather than reckless, hasty and impetuous. Particularly circumspect conduct is recommended in dealing with the opposite sex. Safeguard the health and possessions as well.

A child born on this day may have a melancholy, morbid or erratic tendency which may have unhappy reactions on its intimate life, unless its supervision receive early direction or discipline. This applies particularly to females.

Need of Religion In Wartime

By GARRY C. MYERS, Ph. D.

I suppose we practically all agree that home morale is of first importance in hastening the victory we have set our hearts to win. Most of us believe that morale is first of all a matter of the mind and the emotions; that in the last analysis it is a spiritual matter.

While bombs, tanks, ships, guns and other weapons in the hands of our skilled protectors will eventually win, our conviction that we have staked our all on a righteous cause and that we will surely win, in spite of early reverses, actually determines how fast we turn out these weapons, deliver them to the front and how effectively our men in arms use them.

Our spiritual strivings help us keep perspective, help us see victory ahead when temporary reverses might cause us to lose heart. These values which don't perish but live on forever in our hearts help us and our fellows to feel hope burning in us. It's when all "other helpers fail and comfort flee," that we feel behind us the tender, war supporting hand of the Almighty. In this eternal source of security is, as I see it, the very fountain of morale.

It is apparent that morale on the firing line depends on morale back home. We build morale for victory in the family about the dinner table and fireside. From there is spreads to the arsenal of democracy, and to the boys in the air, on land or on sea. Every soldier, sailor or air pilot comes from a home which is the major source of his morale.

We parents who believe the foregoing to be true, find as never before good reasons to try to keep our spiritual dynamos charged and recharged. We shall betake ourselves to public worship for this purpose and win our children to go with us.

Parents should strive for spiritual growth both for themselves and their children. As we parents grow in this section, our children also will follow.

Only in a democracy can we hope to have the privilege to enjoy a religion that fosters such kindly fellowship.

Solving Parent Problems.

Q. When my child studies his spelling words, he spells first the first word of the list once, then the second, and so on, thus repeating the whole list over and over. Is this a good way?

A. No; prevail on him to look at the first word of the list and, while looking at it, pronounce the word and spell it while looking carefully at it and then repeat this process till he has mastered this word and can spell it accurately without looking at it. Then let him attack the next word, and so on for the whole list. Urge him to try only as many words as he can master at a sitting. Better to master a few than half learn many. A copy of my "Home helps for poor spellers," may be had without cost to you by writing me in care of this paper enclosing a self-addressed envelope with a three-cent stamp on it.

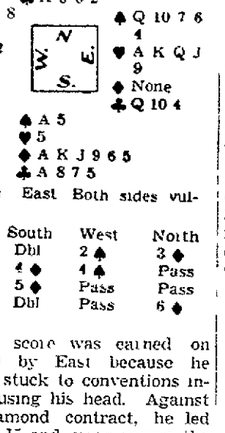
BARCLAY ON BRIDGE

By Shepard Barclay

"The Authority on Authorities"

COMMON SENSE IS BEST

Conventions of play are very fine and very important things. But it is pretty hard to find anything which will beat good old-fashioned common sense, or what some people mistakenly call "card sense." In all of the countless thousands of hands which have been seen by the very best players, none of them ever has noted one case of any such thing, but an uncountable number of examples whereby "horse-sense" has decided the issue.



(Dealer East. Both sides vulnerable.)

East	South	West	North
1 ♠	Dbl	2 ♠	3 ♦
3 ♥	4 ♦	4 ♠	Pass
Pass	5 ♦	Pass	Pass
5 ♠	Dbl	Pass	6 ♦
Dbl

Bottom score was earned on this deal by East because he woodenly stuck to conventions instead of using his head. Against the 6-Diamond contract, he led the heart K and, upon seeing the singleton in dummy watched his partner's play carefully to decide what his next lead should be.

When West played the heart 2, he decided that it was a request for him to switch to the lower-ranking of the two black suits, whereas a high heart would have asked for the higher ranking. As a consequence, he led the club 4 to the second trick, the J winning. The simplest examination of the hand will make it very clear that North had no trouble to take the rest of the tricks.

It may be that West could have made East's job easier by playing the heart 6 on that first trick but West did not consider this necessary in view of the fact that he had made two bids of spades in support of East's original call. When the dummy showed up with the Spade A, it became a virtual certainty that West had the K, and that therefore a spade lead to the second trick could not hurt. Furthermore, East should have seen that his club holding was such that he was absolutely certain to take a trick in it, regardless of what North held, if he refrained from leading it. His club lead in other words, was unpardonable.

Of course, with perfect play by everybody granted, north and South should get to only 5-Diamonds on this deal, and when their opponents bid 5-Spades, they should have been doubled.

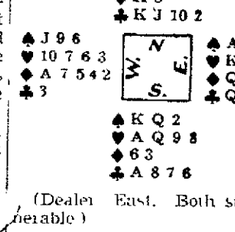
Tomorrow's Problem.



(Dealer East. Both sides vulnerable.)

What is the only defense by East and West on this deal which will defeat North's contract of 3-No Trumps?

Drivers of Army Vehicles Must Pass Stiff Test

MAXWELL FIELD —(INS)— If you think your test was hard when you applied for your automobile driver's license take a trip to Maxwell Field and watch the boys as they are examined for driving "army vehicles."

One of the devices designed to pick good drivers is a method to test one's ability behind the wheel.

Soldiers are required to stand at attention for one minute under an inverted pad of paper. A pencil is strapped to the head of the person being tested, with the point touching the paper.

The scragly pattern of his involuntary wavers is traced on the pad and the pencil cannot move outside a radius of one and one-quarter inches if the candidate is to receive a satisfactory rating.

Luzon, the most American of the 7,000 Philippine islands, is about as big as Virginia.

U. S. Ready to Roll Out 60-Ton Tanks

THE WAR TODAY

By DEWITT MACKENZIE
(Wide World War Analyst)

There have been indications lately of discontent in Germany, the latest being the report (unconfirmed but from a responsible source, that some of Hitler's generals have notified him that if his 1942 campaign in Russia fails they will try to institute a plan of their own calling for "abolition of the Nazi system."

Naturally the question arises as to how much of a hold Nazism has on the German people. In this connection Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt has put her finger on a vital point with the observation that it will require many years after the war to educate German youth to understand that democracy is better than Hitler's theory of racial superiority and hatred for other peoples.

That certainly is true, and it will represent a great post-war problem. But it also is a matter of immediate moment, since Hitler is depending heavily on the support of young Germany to pull him through.

The manner in which the young German mind has been Hitlerized since the fuehrer assumed control nine years ago is phenomenal. So thoroughly has it been done that Nazi youth sees only one goal—supremacy of the German race.

Hitler has become the supreme being for these young folk. To vast numbers of them he is literally another Messiah and has come to take the place of the God of their fathers.

And throughout this pagan structure runs the awful spirit of brutal militarism. Might is right, and the Germans are the supreme race to which the rest of the world must bow.

Young men and women have become so fanatical that many are willing to lay their lives on the Hitlerian altar. Youth is ready to undertake "suicide" tasks if Hitler wills it, and the girls, both married and unmarried, are carrying out the fuehrer's teaching that their mission is to bear sons to wage war for Germany.

This scheme of monopolizing the young mind is one of the reasons for Hitler's war on the churches, which have fought to keep from surrendering all training of the children to him.

With the young folk thus regimented, such discontent as there may be—and there is small doubt that it exists—is mainly among the older people who have submitted to the Nazi chief's rule but haven't become Hitlerized. It is doubtful whether many of the German youth are deserting their Messiah.

I know from personal study in Germany just before the war that many of the older people were opposed to the Nazi attitude toward religion, to the Hitlerization of childhood, to the persecution of the Jews, and even to expansion by force of arms.

It is among the elders that we are likely to find the most discontent, and many observers believe this might reach the breaking point in time, just as it did in World War I. The Russians report that some of the Germans they are capturing are thoroughly fed up with the fuehrer and his bloody war.

We must assume, however, that it will take much to shake the loyalty of young Germany as a whole in Hitler's leadership.

And when the war is over and the Allies have won—as they will—they will encounter the holdover of this spirit of Hitlerism among the younger people of the fatherland. As Mrs. Roosevelt indicates, it will take long to teach them that they have been worshipping false gods.

BRICKER SAYS U. S. BLOCKING OHIO DEFENSE

Audience Infers Governor Hits Stalemate Over Ration Administrator.

(By Associated Press)

CINCINNATI—Federal authorities have "stopped the defense organization of Ohio for political purposes," Gov. John W. Bricker charged before Ohio Republican women last night.

The governor in a speech before the Ohio Federation of Republican Women's Clubs mentioned no names, but he obviously referred to the current stalemate over the appointment of Harry T. Beckmann of Van Wert as state rationing administrator.

Beckmann's appointment was recommended by Bricker to federal officials who will take charge of all state rationing systems. The governor previously had said the appointment was held up because he submitted only Beckmann's name instead of a panel.

Beckmann has been serving the state without salary as a volunteer worker, but Bricker told the Republican women the prospective appointee was called to Cleveland and advised he was to be placed on an $8,000 a year salary and given 15 high-salaried assistants.

Bricker said the man he appointed had been willing and able to serve without salary and has been praised in writing by Price Administrator Leon Henderson.

"They have stopped the defense organization of Ohio for political purposes," Bricker added. "Until a few days ago I did not even know the politics of the man I appointed. . . . I knew he had a fine reputation, that he was not dependent on any earnings, and that he was competent. I have never permitted politics to influence appointments in defense efforts and I insist that the national government do the same."

Bricker's charges followed by a week his peace conference with Dan T. Moore, regional civilian defense director, over administration of civilian home front protection in Ohio. They agreed at a joint conference here to discuss together all fundamental issues of policy and to issue joint statements on their decisions.

The Republican women today were to hear U. S. Sen. Robert A. Taft (R., Ohio) and two Cleveland women, Miss Albina Cermak and Mrs. Gladys P. Gordon.

It used to be automobile thefts which plagued Mansfield police but now its the bicycles. Six bicycles have been stolen already this month and nine with a total value estimated at about $142 were taken during April. The greater part of the bikes are recovered but police are alarmed that the theft rate will go even higher because of the increased use of bicycles by persons attempting to conserve automobile tires.

Graduation time is bringing an influx of inquiries concerning stenographic and typists jobs to the local office of the U. S. Civil Service commission. Most of the inquiries are from students and teachers in nearby schools such as Savannah, Hayesville, Bellville and Crestline rather than Mansfield, according to George H. Hoover, local examiner. The amount of interest in government jobs shown by 1942 graduates in nearby communities is indicated by the fact that at least eight Hayesville students will take civil service examinations next week.

Mansfielders who like to hike can find the hills in rural districts surrounding the city in their best spring garb now. Dogwood, blossoming profusely this spring, is plentiful southwest of the city and shows conspicuously over the hillsides where the trees are almost in full leaf. The trilliums and other wildflowers are adding more color to the woodlands.

MONSTERS WILL BE ADDED TO ARMS LINE-UP

Mass Production Seen Making 10 Times as Many Units As Anticipated.

(By United Press)

PHILADELPHIA — New, 60-ton heavy tanks soon will be rolling off the assembly line at the Baldwin Locomotive Works to widen the stream of weapons pouring from America's war industries.

These monsters, among the biggest tanks ever used, will be turned out on the same assembly line basis which has increased the plant's production of [illegible] dium) tanks by "leaps and bounds," as G. H. Froe[illegible] win's manager of ordnance sales, put it.

Froebel's report was corroborated by Maj. A. J. Seiler of the Philadelphia ordnance district, who said that by the end of 1942, Baldwin will be producing 10 times as many tanks as were expected a year ago, when it delivered its first M-3 tank to the army.

"Last month, Baldwin's production was three-and-a-half times what it was when the first tank came off the line," Major Seiler said. "Production will go up another three times before the end of the year."

Baldwin produced the first 60-ton tank in the United States. It has been tested and proved, and will be the model for mass production.

Many other Philadelphia industries are turning out weapons of war in rapidly mounting quantities.

One is the Westinghouse Electric company's steam turbine plant, among the biggest war industrial units in the country.

F. D. Newbury, vice president in charge of emergency war products manufacturing, said employes in the company's plants in 23 cities had increased from a peacetime average of 40,000 to 83,000.

He said Westinghouse had constructed four new war plants costing $80,000,000 which the government had provided. They include naval ordnance factories in Ohio and Kentucky, a new cargo ship turbine and gear plant in the Philadelphia area, and a naval ship propulsion machinery factory at an undisclosed city.

Newbury also revealed that the Westinghouse electric elevator plant in New Jersey had been converted to make gun mounts, that a refrigerator plant in Massachusetts had been converted to the manufacture of accessories for army mechanized forces, and that its electric razor plant was now making electrical motors for aircraft.

ENTERS RACE

Winters, Lodi Attorney, Seeks State Senate Seat.

Ralph A. Winter, Lodi attorney, today announced his candidacy for the Republican nomination for state senator in the 27th-29th district at the August primary.

The 27th-29th district includes Richland, Ashland, Medina and Lorain counties. Winter pointed out that his home county of Medina has not had a state senator for 41 years.

A native of Smithville, Winter was graduated from Ohio Wesleyan university and the Cleveland Law school. He lives at LeRoy, O. He is a member of Rotary International and the Ohio Bar association.

Two other Republicans are already in the contest for the nomination. They are Senator Joseph Jameson of Lorain, seeking reelection, and C. J. Pittenger of Shelby.

PRIZE WINNER

A Shorthorn bull exhibited at the second annual Polled Shorthorn congress at Purdue university by P. G. Ross, Mansfield, today had won the reserve champion bull title.

Ross, whose cattle entries have won prizes at shows throughout the nation, took four animals to the Purdue show.

UNIVERSITY OF AIR SCHEDULED

Classes Expected to Cement Relations Between North and South America.

COLUMBUS —(INS)— Formation of a "university of the air" for study of inter-American culture, political economy and history will soon be launched by the National Broadcasting company, it was announced today at the 13th annual institute for education by radio.

According to Sterling Fisher, one of the organizers, NBC will sponsor the first classes in the last two weeks of July. Next year it hopes to lengthen the courses to six weeks and grant full college credit to graduates.

First classes, Fisher told the institute, will be held in New York. Later it is hoped to establish similar classes at various points throughout the country. There will be no charge for use of the courses.

Fisher's announcement of this far-reaching plan to cement relationships of the North and South American republics was made at a luncheon presided over by Dr. James R. Angell, president emeritus of Yale university and public service counsellor for NBC.

The first course is to be titled "Lands of the Free." It will be broadcast over 120 stations in the NBC's Pan-American network.

The Rev. Edward J. Flanagan, founder of Boys' Town, Neb., was one of the speakers yesterday.

WAR CROPS SPOIL IN FIELDS FOR LACK OF LABOR IN EAST

BRIDGETON, N. J.—(AP)—Hundreds of tons of valuable "war" crops are spoiling in the fields in south Jersey because of a harvest-time shortage of farm labor.

Thousands of dollars worth of asparagus—first major crop to be harvested this season in the northeast—already has gone to waste and agricultural extension agents foresee severe losses in other truck crops, many of them on the lend-lease list.

The plight of this rich farm belt may be an indication of what lies ahead for other farm areas heavily dependent upon migratory workers, U. S. farm security administration aids said after a tour of the area yesterday.

In the past, harvest-time families have trekked here by the thousands from southern states.

This year, the FSA says, the migration has been far below normal, presumably because of the draft, the lure of high wages in war industries and the shortage of tires and gasoline.

Francis A. Raymaley, Cumberland county agricultural extension agent, declared many farmers will be financially ruined unless help arrives soon.

Kenneth Roberts, president of the Cumberland County Asparagus Growers association, pointed to a road scraper moving across acres of valuable asparagus beds. "I'm paying to have overgrown and worthless stalks cut down," he said.

"With things as they are, I've cancelled a contract to grow several acres of tomatoes, a lend-lease commodity."

Another grower said he was working at his harvest with only one helper—a man of 76.

George E. Lamb, agricultural agent for nearby Gloucester county, said entire families are working until 2 and 3 a. m., daily, sorting and packing stalks they pick by day.

Several farmers have banded together to send trucks to the south to bring back help. In one instance, trucks returned empty.

TAKEN BY DEATH

Mrs. Jessie Push, Milliner for Number of Years, Dies.

Mrs. Jessie Crosbie Pugh, widow of John Pugh, died this morning at General hospital following a lingering illness. She lived at 223 West Third street.

She was born in Awatana, Minn., but spent most of her life in Mansfield. For a number of years she operated a millinery store here. She was a charter member of the Central Methodist church and was a past worthy matron of Ruth chapter, Order of Eastern Star.

The body was removed to the Finefrock funeral home where services will be held at 3:30 p. m., Saturday, in charge of Rev. R. L. Foulke, pastor of the Central Methodist church. He will be assisted by Rev. Herbert S. Garnes, pastor of St. Luke's Lutheran church and officers of the Past Matrons club of the Order of Eastern Star. Burial will be in the Mansfield mausoleum.

CLAIM SINKINGS

Nazis Say Ships Torpedoed In Carribean.

BERLIN—(By Official German Wireless)—(INS)—German U-boats operating off the east coast of North America and in the Caribbean sank 22 merchant ships totalling 138,000 tons and torpedoed and damaged two others totalling 17,000 tons, the Nazi high command said today.

"This is a swell party. I hope I don't run out of stomach before everything's gone!"

DIES AT AGE 82

Mrs. Nora Saltzgaber Taken By Death At Son's Home.

Mrs. Nora E. Saltzgaber, 82, died today at 10:15 a. m. at the home of her son, Leo Saltzgaber, 8 Summit court, after a lingering illness.

Lifelong resident of Mansfield, Mrs. Saltzgaber was born here June 3, 1859. She was the widow of the late Charles T. Saltzgaber.

Mrs. Henry Hasenzahl of Mansfield, a daughter, survives with the son, Leo, five grandchildren and three great grandchildren.

Funeral services will be conducted Saturday at 1:30 p. m. at the Finefrock funeral home with Rev. Grover E. Swoyer, pastor of the First English Lutheran church officiating. Interment will be made in Mansfield cemetery.

NEW MANAGER

Gene Lavalle Returns Here for Majestic Theater Post.

Gene Lavalle, a former Mansfield resident who returned here recently from Cincinnati, has been named manager of the Majestic theater.

Grattan Johnston, new city manager of Warner Brothers' three Mansfield houses, announced today that Lavalle would succeed Harold Olds, who was transferred to manage the Madison theater last week.

Put Bite on Dog Warden for Sale Of Dead Pooches

COLUMBUS — (INS) — It was a dog-gone good business that Andy C. Nelson, Fayette county's dog warden, carried on with Ohio State university, state auditors reported today.

Since 1932, Nelson has sold enough of "man's best friends" to the university medical school to net $4,323 which he should have turned over to the county, but did not, it was charged in a report on his books for the period from Feb. 10, 1940, to Aug. 31, 1941.

Moreover, when Nelson ran short of dogs in his own county, he bought some from the Greene county dog warden at 50 cents a head and the Pickaway county warden at 40 cents, according to Examiner Frank E. Smith. The university paid Nelson $1.50 to $2 per dog and he kept the difference, Smith charged.

A finding for recovery of the $4,323 has been made against Nelson and his bondsmen who include a brother, Oliver Nelson, former state treasurer.

Says U. S. Women Do Not Realize There's a War On

ALBUQUERQUE, N. M.—INS—Americans are "reluctant to give us their luxury life" and a great many women do not realize there is a war going on," according to Mrs. John L. Whitehurst of Baltimore, Md., president of the General Federation of Women's clubs.

In Albuquerque to address the State Federation, Mrs. Whitehurst declared she hopes to be able to "jolt women out of that 'peace philosophy' of not realizing there's a very real, terrible war going on."

Instead of learning first aid and rolling bandages, women should be more concerned about consumer problems, housing shortages and conservation, she said.

"The nation 'snapped out of it' right after Pearl Harbor, but now we're slipping back again," she added.

"We must realize that there's a very real danger of our losing the war."

Mrs. Whitehurst heads an organization of 2,500,000 women.

a feud perpetrated between his line and a railroad by an unscrupulous financier who wants to "break" both companies. "Gabby" Hayes and Sally Payne are in the cast. Edward Norris appears in a thrilling drama, "Man With Two Lives," the second picture.

Songstress Featured.

"Mississippi Gambler," featuring Frances Langford, songstress, and Kent Taylor is the current attraction at the Majestic. "O'Malley of the Mounted" with George O'Brien is the second film.

GLAD TO SEE HIM

KLAMATH FALLS, Ore. (U.P.)—Hugh McNerney found the jailer enthusiastic when he went to the Klamath county jail to visit a friend. Once inside, McNerney was served with a warrant for cashing a non-sufficient funds check.

THEATERS

Hardy Picture.

Twelfth picture in the Hardy family series, "The Courtship of Andy Hardy," showing at the Ohio again presents Lewis Stone and Mickey Rooney in the respective roles of father and son. Andy goes into business in this picture as a car-towing operator and he gets into trouble when he is accused of stealing an FBI man's car. He also takes another adventure into romance by showing a wallflower how to become the belle of the ball. Fay Holden, Ann Rutherford, Donna Reed and Sara Haden are in the cast.

Romantic Comedy.

When a successful director of Hollywood screen comedies decides to become a hobo in order to get atmosphere for a social document he wants to produce, everything starts to happen in "Sullivan's Travels," the Joel McCrea-Veronica Lake co-starring feature at the Madison. McCrea plays the director and Miss Lake appears as a discouraged screen actress who forces the director to take her with him by threatening to expose his plot. William Demarest, Robert Warwick and Eric Blore are in the cast. "Torpedo Boat," with Richard Arlen and Jean Parker is the second attraction.

Musical Film.

"Zis Boom Bah," musical film with a collegiate background showing at the Ritz, features Grace Hayes of stage fame, her son, Peter Lind Hayes and Mary Healy. Miss Hayes plays a successful musical comedy star and producer who makes some interesting discoveries when she visits her son's college campus. The chief discovery was the obnoxious personality of her son. Skeets Gallagher, Benny Rubin and Frank Elliott are in the cast. "Date bureaus" are put on the spot in "Escort Girl," the second picture featuring Betty Compson.

Greece Produces Its Own Version Of Edith Cavell

JERUSALEM — (INS) — Greece has produced this war's version of Edith Cavill. Her story was told here by an escaped Australian soldier who had been imprisoned by the Germans in Greece.

A Greek girl sheltered in her home three Australian soldiers who had eluded capture by the Germans after the debarkation of the British Expeditionary Force.

She planned to keep them hidden, until an escape could be arranged. She provided them with civilian clothes, but it was only with great difficulty that she could supply them with food.

One day as she was bringing them food, some German soldiers tried to arrest her and seize the bread. The girl resisted and a scuffle ensued.

Hearing the noise outside, the Australians rushed out and attacked the Germans with clubs. They were overwhelmed, however, and taken to military court.

After a brief trial, the heroic girl and the three Aussies were executed.

MAYBE THOSE BAGGY EYES ARE DUE TO LACK OF VEGETABLES

(By International News Service)

WASHINGTON—Are you lazy, shiftless? Do your muscles ache even when you haven't been bowling. Have you a spare set of bags under your eyes these days? Well, the answer to it all may be a lot simpler than you think.

The bureau of home economics of the department of agriculture suggested that you may not be eating enough vegetables, and that if you are, you may not be preparing them correctly.

Vitamins and minerals are too valuable, the bureau pointed out, to be spoiled by careless preparation. Of these, vitamin C is the easiest to lose. Some of it may be destroyed by heat or soda while much of it dissolves in the cooking water.

Pot liquor, the bureau pointed out, should be treated with consideration. When you throw away the water that remains after you've cooked your vegetables, you throw away precious vitamin B.

Among the nutritionally important foods are tomatoes, green colored vegetables — especially the leafy ones—and yellow vegetables.

Tomatoes, the bureau said, are an excellent source of vitamin C, whether you serve them fresh or out of the can. Nutritionists strongly recommend one serving daily of tomatoes or citrus fruit, or some other fruit or vegetable rich in vitamin C.

Some form of yellow or green vegetable every day are two "musts" that the bureau emphasized, since they are rich sources of carotene, which the body can turn into vitamin A.

The bureau also recommended at least one raw vegetable every day to make up for the vitamins which may be lost through constant cooking, and also for variety's sake.

To allow as little food value as possible to escape through cooking, the bureau offered the following few simple rules:

Cook vegetables in their jackets, make peelings as thin as possible.

Don't cook vegetables any longer than necessary.

Try not to stir vegetables while they are cooking.

Cook frozen vegetables in the smallest possible amount of boiling water.

Serve vegetables as quickly as possible once they are cooked.

These rules, the bureau pointed out, are only suggestions for getting the most out of the vitamins and minerals in vegetables, and do not constitute a vegetarian's manual to be strictly adhered to.

In fact, the bureau went so far as to say that if breaking one of the rules will make for a better tasting dish, "then by all means break it." If the family comes back for second helping and thus gets extra food value, it was explained, the net result will be the same.

Temper the rules with your own judgment and the tastes of your family was the bureau's final admonition.

Daylight Saving Time Starts a Minor Civil War

ONTARIO, Ore. —(INS)— Daylight savings time has caused a small civil war in Malheur county, arid eastern Oregon area with more square miles than seven eastern states and half a square mile for each of its 19,000 residents.

For 20 years Malheur county has been in the Mountain time belt, which means that clocks were about an hour ahead of the sun. When daylight saving time was ordered for the entire nation most of the county changed to Pacific time to prevent setting clocks two hours ahead of the sun and getting up in the middle of the night. This shift required no change in clocks.

However, Nysaa, boasting nearly 900 residents, found itself divided and recently returned to Mountain time. It contended the rest of the county should do likewise because of the Oregon attorney general's ruling that Nyssa and Ontario should remain in the mountain belt. County officials asked what authority the attorney general has and pointed out that only the Interstate Commerce Commission has any say-so on time zones.

TRAINS YOUTHS FOR JOBS

NORTHWOOD, N. H. —(U.P.)— Roger D. Hutchins has started a night class in welding and machine maintenance to train youths for national defense jobs. During the day he runs a garage and attends to the duties of five public offices that he holds.

HORSE-THIEVING NEXT

ST. LOUIS —(U.P.)— Police are prepared for anything now. Some one stole four steel-rimmed wheels from a spring wagon parked in a vacant lot. Police Captain Elias Hoagland, who long before warned his men to guard against tire stealing, said he expected horse thefts soon.

Ocean Island is half way between Australia and the Hawaiian Islands.

BAR WHITE MAN FROM TORRES STRAIT ISLANDS IN PACIFIC

(By International News Service)

WASHINGTON — From cannibalism to taxes and prohibition in less than half a century—that's the record of the Torres Strait Islands, halfway between Australia and New Zealand.

To the layman, the Torres Islands, like many others in the South Seas might seem to be populated with half civilized aborigines and head hunters. Actually according to the National Geographic Society, the natives are devoute Christians who pay income tax, have woman suffrage and live in modern cottages.

Ten of the islands were set aside by the Queensland Province in Australia as reserves for them 4,000 natives. The white man, who destroyed and spoiled so much of the South Sea paradise, is forbidden to enter.

As to their legislation, the islands are self-governing, except in external affairs. Every resident over 18 is allowed to vote for the native Parliament or Council. Native policemen enforce the curfew that chases everyone off the streets at 9. Alcohol is taboo, and uncleanliness is a punishable offense.

The residents have their own typewritten newspaper, and an inter-island radio. Some 1,400 children learn English, horticulture, shipbuilding and seamanship in the native-taught schools. Principal industry is fishing and the native own some half million dollars in bond investments.

Formerly, in ancient times it is said, a natural land bridge joined Australia and New Zealand. Many years ago it sunk into the ocean, leaving rocky, jutting islands, which are the Torres Straits.

Thursday Island, recently bombed heavily by the Japanese is the Strait's administrative capital. Grouped around it are several islands, named Horn, likewise bombed, Tuesday, Goode, Friday, Hammond, Wednesday and Prince of Wales. The "week-day" islands are presumed to have been named by Capt. Cook, who was fond of commemorating his days of discovery.

It is a federal offense to remove game or fur from one province into another or out of Canada without authorization from the province in which the game was taken.

Lumber Industry Fears Post-War Repercussions

PORTLAND, Ore.—(INS)—Pacific northwest lumbermen, striving to keep abreast of orders in the best business period they have had for many years, nevertheless can take time off to worry. Most of it is about the reduction in civilian demand.

Their worrying begins when they look ahead just a little way and see the approaching end of war demands for lumber.

The industry already is nearing the end of orders for construction of cantonments and similar boom jobs, industry spokesmen believe. Probably demands for lumber for airplanes and shipbuilding will continue until the war ends, but that does not solve the problem.

What bothers the lumbermen most is how to get rid of low-grade lumber. War is taking 75 per cent of the west coast lumber output now, and when construction ends there will be few military calls for low-grade wood.

Civilian building, which normally makes use of sub-perfect grades of lumber, is being dried up by control of metals. Besides, the bulk of the ships which heretofore have transported cheap grades to other sections of the country no longer are available to the industry and railroad shipment, although speedier, is more expensive.

NON-CONFORMISTS

SANTA CRUZ, Cal. —(U.P.)— Pacific coast chickens refuse to abide by Pacific coast war time, according to members of Live Oak Grange. The Grangers had to postpone their meetings one hour to 9 p. m., because the chickens will not return to roost by 8 P. W. T.

HOLD TEA

Stage Mother-Daughter Event At Lucas Church Sunday.

LUCAS—More than a hundred women and girls of the Lucas and Pleasant Valley Lutheran churches are expected to attend the annual Mothers-Daughters tea which will be held in the parlors of St. Paul's church here at 2:30 p. m. Sunday.

Miss Alice Hepner, for many years a missionary in Japan and whose parents are still engaged in missionary activities there, will be the principal speaker.

Several musical and other appropriate features will be included in the afternoon program. The affair is sponsored annually by the young men's mission study club of the two churches.

JOB ABOLISHED

SANTA CRUX, Cal. —(U.P.)— city council abolished the position of wharfinger because the amount of work did not justify continuation of such expenditure. Allen S. Lozier, who has held the position, says he hasn't docked a boat in three years.

FAMED VOICE OF DUTCH REPORTER STILLED BY WAR

Fate of Man Who Sent Reports To U. S. From East Indies Remains Unknown.

(By Wide World)

NEW YORK—In a tropical capital a general surrendered his sword, and one of the voices of a news agency which had been born in one war was stilled in another.

Even now the New York and London offices of Aneta, Dutch news agency, are waiting for the first word from any member of the staff which for 60 days before the fall of Java held the spotlight of news reporting.

They are the staff which broke the news of the beginning of the battle of Macassar straits, the sinking of the four Japanese transports by Dutch submarines the day after Pearl Harbor, the first raids on Soerabaja, the eyewitness accounts of the battle of Tarakan, the "scorched earth" at Balik-Papan.

They are the staff that smashed Aneta's powerful Batavia radio receiving set with a hammer and bashed the teletype machines when they knew that in another day they would be put to use for the Japanese.

They are typified by one of their men whose name in that 60 days became well known to newspaper readers wherever there was an allied press, Jan Bouwer.

Each morning at 7:30 in New York a wide awake voice in the Aneta offices here said "hello" to Bouwer's weary greetings from Java. There it was 8 p. m., the end of a weary war day.

It was alway Bouwer calling. New York knew his voice. He knew the voices on this end. Without ever having seen their owners, he would say in recognition, "Hello, Dan," or "Hello, Jacob," and begin reading his stories.

There was a reason for Bouwer's always being the one to call. His diction was precise, his voice even toned. Those things are important in a 10,000 mile phone call that traveled two thirds of the way by wireless.

Bouwer made two scheduled calls each day. When he had something particularly good, he was apt to preface it and assuage his excitement by a brief, "here's the story!" It was all the communicable excitement he could allow himself at a phone rate of $20 per three minutes.

The day the battle of Macassar Straits began, Bouwer put in one of his flash calls. "Here's a story!" New York heard that, then heard, "Dutch planes . . . bombing . . . Jap ships sunk."

Then he went on in his precise diction—careful not to leave silences that might be taken for voice fading—and told the story of the beginning three-day battle.

Sometimes when he called from Bandoeng, the temporary capital in the interior, bombers were roaring overhead and the sound of ack-ack guns could be distinguished in New York.

Toward the end, when Aneta's staff grew smaller from the absence of reporters who had not returned from Celebes or Sumatra, tall, sallow Jan Bouwer made more and more frequent trips to the fighting front between his phone calls.

The New York office remembers the occasion when, after six weeks of it, Bouwer asked if he could make his call that night two hours late so that he and his wife might go to their first movie in six weeks.

Then on Friday, March 6 Bouwer made only one call. On March 7, the day Java fell, there was one wireless message, and that's all anyone knows about Jan Bouwer.

Rationing Board Issues 62 Tire, Tube Certificates

The Mansfield rationing board issued certificates last week authorizing purchase of 31 tires and 31 tubes by firms and individuals, Chairman James Bailey announced today.

The board authorized the following purchases:

Truck tires and tubes — James Alexander, 4 each; G. L. Rogers, 1 tube; R. C. Vail and Supply company, 1 tire; Boy Scouts, troop 13, 1 tube; David R. Culler, 2 each; Frank Guarino, 2 tires; George W. Kirsch, 1 tire; Richland county highway department, 3 each; Clifford A. Taylor, 1 each; J. R. Darling, 2 each; Cement Products company, 4 each; Tressa Compston, 4 each; Dearman Transportation, 1 each; L. W. Baumberger, 1 tube.

Passenger car tires and tubes—Ohio State reformatory, 1 each; Reuben Charles Weatherall, 2 tubes; Dr. J. F. Heringhaus, 1 each; Garnetia L. Cramer, 1 tube; Dr. H. G. Knierim, 2 each; Red Star Yeast and Products company, 2 tires.

It is believed that a scarcity of small mammals, such as rats, mice and lemmings in the Arctic is the cause of the flight of large numbers of snowy owls to eastern Canada and New England.

SENIOR CLASS GIVES PLAY IN SCHOOL AUDITORIUM TONIGHT

Completing a month of intensive rehearsals yesterday the senior class of Mansfield Senior high school will present its class play "The Joy of Living" at 8 p. m., today in the auditorium.

The three-act comedy, written by Dorothy and Herbert Fields, appeared here last year as a movie. Revolving around the home of a former queen of the stage the entire action of the fast-moving story takes place in the living room of a New York hotel suite.

Directed by E. L. Heasley, faculty dramatics instructor, the cast of the play is composed of Jean Herring, William Dietrichson, Durward Burns, Marilee Sword, Helen Ann Troll, Kenneth Lang, Norman Wilcox, Justin Seiler, Joe Brumfield, Wanda Hess, Kenneth Smith, Diana Howard, Jean Porter, Gracia Derr, Edward Arlin, Gene Oswalt and Morton Frankel.

The production staff includes Anne Lersch, business manager; Nick Weamer and Bruce Graves, advertising managers; and Marianne Linn, prompter.

Katharine Wood is in charge of properties, assisted by Janet Hemphill, Jean Kelly, William Clark and William Wheatley. Kathryn Lannard is chairman of the ushers committee.

Largest Mercury Lamp In World Now Completed

CLEVELAND—(INS)—The largest and most powerful mercury lamp in the world, hailed by lighting experts as a distinct contribution to speeding up defense industries, has been completed at Nela Park laboratories it was announced by General Electric's Lamp department.

Engineers contend the "AH-9" 3,000-watt mercury lamp will be a boon to the lighting of steel mills, foundaries, erecting shops, and other large areas where lofty mounting heights of luminaries are required.

Tests have shown that the "AH-9" is a "natural" whereever accurate human seeing is required, and that it can provide more than 50 foot-candles of light evenly over the working plane. The present average factory lighting level is less than 10 footcandles.

Sport Podge

by REX HESS

Stories about the Mid-Atlantic baseball league appeared now and again on this page last summer, but more often than not the hey-hey from the Mad-A went its merry way into the waste basket.

Now the Mad-A is a circuit which affords its customers many a deep-throated chortle during a season's campaign, and for that reason it often makes the sport pages outside its own environs.

But, I reasoned, the readers of this page cannot be greatly concerned with the daily doings of the Mad-A while our own Ohio State league is engaged in the throes of its death struggle.

* * *

The O. S. loop has died its natural death, but many of its players are now cavorting on Mad-A diamonds, so that reading the reports of Mid-Atlantic games should be just like a letter from home to the baseball-less fans of our fair community.

Yesterday we read that Mansfielder Bobby Ankrum broke up a game for Charleston with a triple in the ninth with two on, and the day before Mansfielder Bob Kuzava hurled a win for the same team.

Mansfielder Bill Salem is playing right field for Charleston, and on opening day the Charleston battery was: Don Bayliss of Tiffin and Ralph Weigel of Lima.

I haven't heard yet whether Mansfielder Chuck Byers stuck with Charleston, but I'm informed he reported there, after being turned down by the draft medicos back in Pennsylvania.

Sprys from Fremont is playing left field for the Charlies, who swept their opening series of the season with the Erie Sailors.

Playing left field and leading off for Erie was Dick Waters of Fostoria.

Hard-hitting Bill Campau of Tiffin is playing third base for Zanesville where he'll be joined in two weeks by Lima's Johnny Cindric, home run clouting first sacker.

Gene Kavanaugh, sold by Lima last fall to the Boston Red Sox, is playing right field for Canton, Boston farm club.

And that ain't all! The Lima Panda bus is now carting the Erie Sailors around the Mad-A circuit. Well, good for us!

* * *

So with all those familiar names apt to cop the headlines throughout the summer in the class "C" circuit, I think I'll run the Mid-Atlantic results regularly.

Some of the readers may want to know what the boys are doing on their next step up the baseball ladder.

Carbetta Booked On Toledo Card

Paul Carbetta, Mansfield bantamweight boxer, leaves tonight for Toledo where he has been booked in the preliminaries of the fight show tomorow night at the Toledo Ice House, headed by the 1-round bout between Bob Montgomery, welterweight champion, and Carmen Notch of Pittsburgh.

Carbetta has been training daily since joining the Notch stable, and believes he is ready to go in a ring comeback after nearly a year's idleness.

UNION HIGH HURLER TWIRLS ONE-HITTER

No-hit Hurler Harold Mattox of Union high school turned in a one-hit performance against Lucas, but three walks, three hit-batters, and two errors combined to give Lucas four markers as Union chalked up a 12-4 victory.

Swain got the only Lucas hit when he singled over third with two out in the fourth. The hit drove in the first Lucas run. Mattox struck out the side in the second.

Tygers Swamp Bucyrus

Track Carnival Draws Crowd of 500 Fans.

NEARLY 500 fans braved threatening weather last night to turn out for Mansfield's first all-school track meet at Stadium field, topped by the Mansfield-Bucyrus high school meet in which the Tygers scored a decisive victory.

* * *

Interest ran high in the track carnival, and school officials believed that with better weather conditions the crowd would have been doubled.

* * *

Also braving the weather, all decked out in their spring finery, were Track Queen Wanda Hess and her attendants, Joan Porter, Athena Paulos, Jean Kelly, Helen Ann Troll and Gretchen Anderson, but Starter Bill Keefe and track judges were taking no chances on finery with rain threatening any minute. They were suitably attired in rain coats, boots, and old clothes.

So much for the style show.

Mansfield's Tygers, continuing their undefeated record, and marking up their fifth stright triumph after an opening meet tie, completely swamped a hiterto unbeaten band of Bucyrus Redmen, 86 to 32.

While presenting several stars, including the football flash, Jimmy Leuthold, Bucyrus lacked the balance to seriously contest the Mansfield supremacy.

Mansfield won firsts in 10 of the 14 events, and took all nine points in three events, the mile run, shot put and discus.

Christman scored firsts for Bucyrus in the 440 and high jump, Leuthold won the 100, and Cooperrider the 880. Cooperrider finished third in the state meet last year in his event.

Lightnin' Jones again paced the Tygers with first in the broad jump, shot put and 220, leading Leuthold by four steps in the dash. Lightnin' boosted his point total for the season to nearly 100 points.

A slow, soggy, and in spots, water-covered track kept records high above the usual Mansfield marks, and the heavy runway for the pole vault resulted in the poorest exhibition of the season in that event.

In spite of a disqualification in the half-mile relay, which they won handily, John Simpson's surprising young athletes coasted to a 75⅔ to 24⅓ victory over Johnny Appleseed in their battle for the city junior high championship.

It was the fourth athletic victory chalked up by Simpson over Appleseed during the school year, one in football and two in basketball preceding the track triumph.

* * *

Simpson scored firsts in 10 of the 12 events, Erich winning the 880 yard run for Appleseed, and anchoring the Pioneer 880 relay team to victory.

Roland Schmidt won three firsts for Simpson, in spite of a foot injury, and helped the 440 relay team win its event.

* * *

With an overwhelming advantage in the number of qualifiers entered in the meet, Bowman school won the grade school championship in decisive fashion

50 Schools Meet In Miami Relays

OXFORD—(AP)—Nearly 50 Ohio high schools have entered the eighth Miami university high school track and field meet, to be held Friday and Saturday.

* * *

The list is headed by last year's champions, Springfield in class A and Rome-Stewart in class B. There are 21 schools and 242 individuals entered in the A group and 26 schools and 234 individuals in class B.

* * *

A college track team meet between Miami's undefeated team and Michigan Normal of Ypsilanti will be run along with the high school events.

Shut Out Goes as Favorite In Rich Preakness

Shut Out, with Arcaro up

Wayne Wright

Pimlico race track, Baltimore, Md.

Colchis . . . he didn't go in Derby

Alsab and his owner, Al B. Sabath

Another great racing classic, the rich Preakness Stakes at Pimlico race track, Baltimore, Md., is up for decision this week with Shut Out, the Greentree Stable's Kentucky Derby winner, the probable favorite. On Shut Out again will be Wayne Wright, not Eddie Arcaro, who had his choice of either Shut Out or Devil Diver, the other Greentree entry in the Derby, and chose Devil Diver. Arcaro, shown ironically, on Shut Out before the Derby race was run, plans to ride Devil Diver in the Preakness. Most feared horses in the Preakness are Alsab, the gallant campaigner owned by Al B. Sabath of Chicago; Colchis, who twice took Alsab's measure this year, and Sun Again, from the Warren Wright stable. Neither Colchis nor Sun Again went in the Derby.

Derby Winner Faces Test

Hero or Lucky Bum Tags Brushed Up.

By MASON BRUNSON

BALTIMORE — (AP) — Shut Out —plucky hero or lucky bum?

That's up to Mrs. Payne Whitney's Kentucky Derby winner to prove in the Preakness stakes at Pimlico Saturday when the field of ten goes after the richest pot in the history of the race and a large portion of prestige.

You can find plenty of people willing to argue and wager both ways. Those who favor Shut Out as a "hero" point that Equipoise's son came up to the Derby with a pretty good record, that he stuck it out at the finish when the pressure was on, that it was his number they posted first and that his victims included most of the topflight three-year-olds.

And those who call him a "lucky bum" contend that if he hadn't been coupled with his stablemate, Devil Diver, he'd have been a longshot and most of the good colts he beat had plenty of trouble along the way.

Well, Shut Out will face most of those fellows again in the mile and three-sixteenths Preakness, along with two or three more he hasn't met yet, and he and Jockey Wayne Wright will be in there pitching to show they weren't foolin' at Churchill Downs.

But their opposition in this canter, if all ten go, promises to be even tougher than in the Derby.

* * *

There'll be three fresh horses in against Shut Out and his stablemate, Devil Diver. They are Warren Wright's Sun Again, which never has run a bad race; R. Sterling Clark's Colchis, never out of the money until the Wood Memorial, and Louis B. Mayer's Domingo, English-bred war refugee which won his maiden victory at Jamaica this week.

GAMES POSTPONED

DAYTON —(AP)— All Mid-Atlantic baseball games were postponed yesterday because of the weather. Today's games: Erie at Dayton, Charleston at Canton, Zanesville at Springfield.

DYKES STICKS FOR EIGHT LONG YEARS

CHICAGO — (AP) — Jimmy Dykes, skipper of those floundering Chicago White Sox, can celebrate tomorrow—if he feels so inclined—the eighth anniversary of his appointment as Sox-manager.

He succeeded Lew Fonseca on May 8, 1934. The Sox then went in last place with four wins and 10 losses. Today their plight is even worse—4 wins and 18 losses. Nine of the defeats came by one run. Yesterday it was by two, in extra innings.

Little Money Won at Lorain

Mansfielders Fail To Take Heavy Dough.

Mansfield won the Inter-City bowling tournament for 1943, but Mansfield keglers failed to take very much money out of this year's tourney at Lorain, a list of money awards received here last night reveals.

* * *

Top Mansfield winners in the various divisions were Orange Street Cafe, 43rd in five-man, Fritz Vogel and Art Shepard, 17th in doubles, and Dale Cleckner, 17th in singles. Mansfielders failed to break into the all-events prize money.

Tappan Stove finished 26th in the booster five-man event. The money winners:

SPORTS ROUNDUP

By HUGH FULLERTON, JR.

NEW YORK—(Wide World)—Speaking, perhaps, with a touch of prejudice aroused by recent events, James J. (I always have a story for you) Johnston, argues that there's no such thing as a punch-drunk fighter. . . . Some of the boys reported that Abe Simon's recent retirement was a result of his desire to avoid taking one punch too many. . . . Says Jimmy: "Look at all the sparring partners; look at the guys who used to fight 20 rounds in every fight. . . . Look at all the punches they took. . . . The only ones that act queer had something wrong with them all the time only it didn't show up while they were in fighting shape. They never begin to act punchy until they let themselves get out of condition." . . . Says Jimmy (does he ever stop?): "By the way, Larry Atkins is here offering $25,000 for Bob Pastor to fight Harry Bobo at Cleveland in June."

SPORTPOURRI.

Young Jim Bagby reports that his pappy didn't tell him about pitching. He says all he learned from Jim, Senior, was how to throw a screwball and that the way to learn to pitch was by experience. . . . Al Buck, the New York Post fight expert, is due to go into the army soon. Then it'll be a case of Private Buck, buck private. . . . When Kjell Ovale, former U. of Washington track captain now a cadet at the Corpus Christi, Tex., naval air station, was timed in 9.2 seconds for a 100-yard-dash recently, officials decided 9.4 would be a more reasonable time. But they say it wasn't because they didn't believe their eyes but because there was a slight wind at his back.

TODAY'S GUEST STAR.

Jesse Linthicum, Baltimore Sun: "We learn that Ted Sczpkowski is a $50,000 find and Shag Shaughnessy is said to have placed that kind of a ticket on him. Gosh; Shag is careless spending the major league's money."

Crosby, Hope Help Soldiers

Gallery Grabs Balls In Movie Golf Match.

CHICAGO — (INS) — The golf "feud" between Bing Crosby and Bob Hope remained unsettled today, but for Fort Sheridan recreational officials there was the sweet definiteness of $2,200 to add to their recreational funds.

* * *

The match, scheduled for 18 holes at the Edgewater Golf club, netted that much in proceeds although it was called at the ninth green to allow the movie stars time to rehearse for the victory caravan show.

* * *

Crosby, who was playing with Chick Evans, beat Hope and Tommy Armour two up, according to latest estimates made after deductions for conceded putts, balls taken by the gallery and swings interrupted by autograph hounds.

Hope said something about a recount but no certified public accountants were available.

Bonham Blanks Indians

Hurls Third Shutout In Four Victories.

By JUDSON BAILEY
(Associated Press Sports Writer.)

MR. BIG among all the pitchers in the major leagues this year seems likely to be Ernest Edward Bonham of the New York Yankees.

"Tiny" is perfectly cast for the part, because he stands 6 feet 2 and weighs 215 pounds. But more than that he has won the first four games this spring, three by shutouts, and yesterday he subdued the Cleveland Indians 3-0 to return the Yankees to the pinnacle of the American league.

The huge righthander stepped to stardom in the last world series by browbeating the Brooklyn Dodgers on four hits in the final turbulent game at Ebbets Field.

* * *

Since then he has recovered from his lame back, cast off the brace he wore in struggling to a mediocre 9 and 6 record last season, and has become one of the glamor boys of the 1942 pitching parade.

It took Bonham only an hour and 24 minutes to mesmerize the Indians in one of the quickest nine-inning games of the season.

The Indians' five singles were spread into as many different innings and only one Cleveland runner reached second and none went beyond.

* * *

It was Cleveland's fourth straight loss after winning 13 in a row and dropped the Tribe into a tie for second with the Boston Red Sox, who nosed out the Chicago White Sox, 3-1.

* * *

The latter game was a stirring pitching duel between old Ted Lyons and Joe Dobson, each of whom allowed six hits.

Buck Newsom pushed back into the spotlight by pitching the Washington Senators to a 7-0 shutout of the Detroit Tigers on one hit—a triple by Doc Cramer.

Elden Auker submarined the St. Louis Browns to a 7-2 decision over the Philadelphia Athletics by keeping seven hits scattered.

Only one game was played in the National league. The St. Louis Cardinals plastered an 11-2 defeat on the last place Phils.

Other games were postponed because of the weather.

Record Posted In ABC Singles Books

COLUMBUS — (AP) — Charles Cheavacci's 729 singles count, good for ninth place, enabled American Bowling Congress statisticians to post a new record in the books yesterday.

* * *

The Akron, N. Y., bowler's series yesterday was the 26th over the 700 mark in the present tournament's singles bracket, one more than the previous all-time ABC total established last year at St. Paul.

* * *

Other high scores yesterday included a 2869 in the team event by the Detroit Karp Coals and a 1276 in the doubles by William Lenz and Leonard Musser of Tiffin, O.

Gives Credit To Coaches

Boudreau Still Has Eye On First Division.

NEW YORK—(AP)—Lou Boudreau, Cleveland's leading juvenile, had no illusions about his Indians winning the American league flag, even before the Yankees slapped the Tribe out of the leadership yesterday.

"It was nice winning those 13 straight," smiled the 24-year-old manager, "but we didn't quite expect to keep that up. Our goal still is to finish in the first division." (The Indians wound up in a tie with Detroit for fourth place last year.)

* * *

"You see," he continued, frankly, "we're not what you would call a balanced club. Our pitching isn't too strong and we're not very fast. After all, you can't lose a pitcher like Bob Feller without feeling it, can you? But in some ways we're a better team than last year—better spirit and hustle, anyway."

Boudreau admitted he was feeling the strain of managing the team from his shortstop post, although the averages so far do not disclose that he has lost any of his efficiency.

* * *

"It's a lot different from just playing out there. Now I've got everything to attend to. Got to see that the pitcher is giving the right stuff to every batter and every player is in the right position. It's a job.

* * *

"I guess the main thing I'm fortunate in having is a set of coaches like Oscar Melillo, Burt Shotten and George Susce. If you're looking around for how we got away to such a great start, give them a lot of the credit."

AID WAR RELIEF

CHICAGO—(INS)—Approximately $40,000 will flow into the coffers of three war-time relief agencies as a result of yesterday's meeting at Sportsmen's park race track, it was announced today. The proceeds netted from some 11,000 horse-racing fans were earmarked for the Army relief fund, the Navy relief fund and the Service Men's center.

ENLISTS IN NAVY

CLEVELAND—(U.P.)—Charles Campbell, whose Shaw high school football team won the Lake Erie league co-championship last fall, was notified today that his enlistment in the Navy has been accepted and that he has been commissioned a lieutenant, junior grade, for duty as a physical instructor.

Ohio Tourneys Attract Pros

Thar's Gold Waiting On Buckeye Courses.

By FRITZ HOWELL

COLUMBUS—(AP)—A couple of pots of gold, containing some $12,000, are buried at the ends of a golfing rainbow in Toledo and Youngstown — and the nation's "play for pay" brigade will breeze in next month to capture the coin.

* * *

The fixtures, two of the top spots on the tournament tour mapped for the par-shattering professionals, are the Toledo Inverness four-ball invitational (prize list about $7,000), and the Mahoning valley open offering $5,000.

The Inverness classic, in which 16 of the nation's top-flight swingers will compete in pairs over a four-day round-robin match play route, starts June 11. The Mahoning valley, a 72-hole medal play race with no one barred, is scheduled June 26, 27 and 28, with 18 holes the first two days, and 36 the final day when the field will be cut to the low 60 professionals and the 15 best simon pures.

Benny Hogan and Jimmy Demaret, the torrid Texans who copped the Inverness first prize last year, are partners again this season. Other pairings are Byron Nelson and long-hitting Jimmy Thomson; Horton Smith and Melvin (Chick) Harbert, and Henry Picard and Sam Byrd, the former big league outfielder. Other Inverness entrants, not yet paired, are Jimmy Hines, Herman Barron, Lloyd Mangrum, Lawson Little, E. J. (Dutch) Harrison, Denny Shute, Herman Keiser and Chandler Harper.

Harper, who holds the world record of 58 strokes for an 18-hole round over Glenshealah course at Portsmouth, Va., paired with Keiser to win the Miami four-ball matches last winter.

Big, blond Clayton Heafner, the talented Tarheel from Linville, N. C., will be back at Youngstown for another crack at the $1,200 first prize—if he's back in the good graces of the P. G. A. by that time, and hasn't been inducted into the army.

Heafner was not permitted to qualify this week for the P. G. A. national tournament, following charges of "violation of the ethics of the game," which he said arose from picking up his ball on the eighth hole of one of the southern tournaments, and resultant argument with another player in the clubhouse.

Last year Heafner rapped out a 276 total—four under par—to win the Mahoning valley event.

Some 175 to 200 pros and amateurs are expected for the Youngstown feature, and Pete Weilman, who is putting up the $5,000 prize, had pledged half of the gate receipts profits to the Red Cross.

The entire Inverness field, with games at razor edge after the four-day round-robin, will move over to the Youngstown meet. About 20 per cent of each prize fund is expected to be paid off in war stamps and bonds.

TAKE REST

COLUMBUS — (INS) — American association teams were to try again with Columbus at St. Paul, Louisville at Kansas City, Toledo at Minneapolis and Indianapolis at Milwaukee. The weatherman was the only winner yesterday as the elements forced postponement of all games.

2—Card of Thanks

WITH REGARD TO A CARD OF THANKS

Very often a Card of Thanks in The News-Journal meets a need which can hardly be solved in any other way. Not only is it a gracious expression of gratitude to those who have sent floral tributes, but also courteously acknowledges the service and kindness of the many to whom a personal note of thanks cannot well be mailed, or whose names or addresses are not known.

A "Card of Thanks" can now be arranged by telephone: Dial 4251-6, ask for Miss Lane or Miss Stone, either will be glad to render whatever service and advice you need.

STOCK LEADERS SHOW TREND TO RECOVERY SIDE

Heavy Construction Record Reached on Strength of War Building Work.

NEW YORK—Leading stocks inclined to edge over on the recovery side in today's transactions.

In a moderately active market gainers of fractions included General Motors, Bethlehem, Electric and Republic Steel. A shade lower were U. S. Steel and American Telephone.

Boardrooms derived some comfort in the survey of the engineering News-Record which estimated this week's heavy building activities, motivated mainly by spectacular expansion of war construction contracts, touched the highest mark on record.

The week's aggregate of $434,955,000 was 45 per cent over the former peak of $298,718,000 reached in the week of July 10, last year. It was 138 per cent above the previous week and 502 per cent higher than in the corresponding 1941 period.

Notice also was taken of the Dun & Bradstreet compilation disclosing banks clearings in 24 cities during the past week were the largest in nearly two months, exceeding the week before by 9.1 per cent and the same time a year ago by 13.6 per cent.

CHECK ON SLIM CLEW, ARREST 2

Highway Patrolmen Credited With Solving Hold-Up of 4 At Loudonville.

manned by a third person who still has eluded apprehension.

Events leading up to the capture of two of the three men, as recounted by officers at the Mansfield sub-station, were these:

Patrolmen Garner and Arnold, on patrol duty on highways in the Loudonville vicinity on the night of the robbery, had kept mental notes of an automobile they saw near Loudonville. Its license numbers started with the FJ series. They had classed it as a "rather suspicious car."

Later, in their hunt for the robbers, the officers made a check of all the license numbers in the FJ series, checking off the names of owners who might be suspicioned of robberies. It involved checking hundreds of license numbers in that series and in the later check-up they were aided materially by Cleveland police and their "suspicious persons" list.

Milite was first arrested. He was taken into custody by Cleveland police in Cleveland and turned over to the patrolmen and Marshal Schnittke. Questioning resulted in a confession.

Valerian was arrested last Saturday in Niles, O., by Cleveland officers and turned over to the state officers and the Loudonville marshal. Valerian also confessed.

They were arraigned in the Loudonville mayor's court last night and ordered held to the Ashland county grand jury.

EX-MAYOR DIES

CINCINNATI—(AP)—Clifford H. Hay, 70, for 24 years mayor of suburban Cheviot, died yesterday. He was defeated for re-election last November.

MANSFIELD NEWS IN BRIEF

Plans Picnic — The Richland County Young Democratic club will hold a picnic at 6:30 p. m. Tuesday at South park, according to Miss Mary Newcomer, president of the club. County Auditor Norman L. Wolfe is chairman of the committee in charge of arrangements.

Humane Society Meets — Annual meeting of the Mansfield Humane society will be held at 4 p. m. Friday at 100 West Fourth street, Philip Wolfe, president, announced today. Officers and nine directors will be elected.

Attends Funeral—Mrs. Herbert E. McClure, 103 Helen avenue, left today for Atwood, Kan., to attend funeral services Saturday for her brother, Joseph C. Youngblood, sr., 54, who died Thursday after a heart attack.

Council Meeting—Mansfield Girl Scout Council expected to formulate plans for the summer season and day camp period at a meeting held in Scout headquarters this morning.

Airplane Club Meets — The Frank Lahm Y Cadets will hold their regular weekly meeting at 7:30 p. m., today, in Y. M. C. A. clubrooms it was announced by Secretary Ralph B. Chapman.

Committee To Meet — The Nurses' Aid committee will meet next Wednesday at the Red Cross executive offices to make plans for the "graduation" of the first Nurses' Aid class later in the month. Nineteen members will receive certificates. Time for the meeting will be announced later.

Scout Leaders Meet—Scoutmasters of the Mansfield area will hold their regular monthly meeting at 7:30 p. m. today at Boy Scout headquarters, 54 North Mulberry street, it was announced by Floyd Dent, area scout executive. Plans for the summer camp sessions and the area Camp-O-Rall to be held in June will be discussed.

Arrest Mansfielder — Sam H. Yearling, Mansfield R. D. 1, was arrested last night by Mansfield police on a charge of unsafe operation. He will be arraigned in municipal court next Wednesday. Police charged that Yearling was driving recklessly on West Fourth and Washington streets and around Central park.

Report Burglary—James Deloff, proprietor of the Rose Bowl tavern, 261 Bowman street, reported to police today that his tavern had been broken into between 2 a. m. and 6 a. m. and that an undetermined amount of cash had been taken. Police said entrance was gained by breaking a window in the front door of the tavern.

Reports Bikes Stolen — Three persons reported to police yesterday that their bicycles had been stolen. Donald Robinson, Mansfield R. D. 1, said his bike was stolen from Bowman street school while Mrs. Alvin Jaggers, 326½ West Third street, reported a bicycle taken from her home. Richard Lanman, 235 Marion avenue, told police his bike was stolen while he was attending a show at a downtown theater.
